GEN. CHIANG IS REPORTED RESCUED BY LOYAL ARMY

Chinese Dictator Said to Have Been Saved by Nanking Troops, and Captor, Mutinous Chang Hsueh-liang Arrested.

JAPAN ACCUSES RUSSIA OF PLOT

Consults With Germany Under New Anti-Communist Accord, Charging That Moscow Instigated Revolt at Sianfu.

By the Associated Press. SHANGHAI, Dec. 14.—The rescue of Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek from mutinous troops at Sianfu was reported tonight, although official sources said they could not confirm the reports. Chiang was said to have arrived in Nanking after Government troops had arrested Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, leader of the mutiny.

By the Associated Press. TOKIO, Dec. 15 (Tuesday).—The Domei (Japanese) News Agency today received a Chinese report from Peking to the effect that the 108th Division of the Northeastern Chinese Army, going "outright Communist," had revolted and seized its commander, Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, who last week imprisoned Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek. The Japanese Foreign Office announced that it was consulting with Germany, with whom Japan recently signed an anti-Communist alliance, about charges that the Moscow Komintern was behind the anti-Japanese mutiny of the Chinese forces.

Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, war lord of Manchuria and commander in Shenai, seized the Chinese Generalissimo, Chiang Kai-shek, Saturday, and is holding him prisoner, demanding that Chiang and his Nanking Government declare war on Japan. The Japanese press has declared there is proof that Soviet Russia was back of the development. (An official denial of this charge was issued today in Moscow.)

Decisive Orders to Navy. Decisive instructions were sent yesterday to Vice-Admiral Kiyoshi Hasegawa, commander-in-chief of the Japanese Third Fleet in Chinese waters, to take firm measures to protect Japanese interests. He was ordered to do nothing to aggravate China's internal situation, but he was authorized to take any Japanese interests were menaced.

Should Chang's mutiny end in Chiang's death, it was said here, Japan would be deeply concerned lest men more friendly to Soviet Russia than to Japan should gain control of the Chinese Government. The press denounced Chiang's character and past and present activities while featuring interviews and articles praising the captive Chinese dictator.

Conflicting Reports on Chiang. Conflicting reports on whether Chiang was alive or dead flooded Tokyo. The latest said he was kidnapped a week ago, although the news came only Saturday, and held prisoner ever since. The Domei (Japanese) News Agency said Nanking had been negotiating with Chiang for a considerable time. Finally despairing of success, it said, officials decided to launch military operations against Sianfu and announced Chiang's capture.

Another report said Chiang was shot at dawn today because Chang became infuriated when he was stripped of his official position and ordered arrested by the Central Government.

As lending credence to the charge that Russia was behind Chang, newspapers cited the offer of Gen. Feng Yu-hsiang, Vice-Minister of the Military Affairs Commission, to mediate between the Nanking Government and Chang for Chiang's release. Feng was characterized as one of the most anti-Japanese and pro-Russian members of the Chinese Government.

The Shanghai correspondent of Nichi Nichi telegraphed that Chang had organized an independent government at Sianfu, capital of Shenai, with the support of Russia. The correspondent asserted also that the seizure of Chiang was carried out with the co-operation of disaffected militarists of the Southwestern Province of Kwangsi, who have been keeping in close contact with the Communists of China.

Reports From Naval Officers. The naval high command has received reports from commanders of Chinese waters that Communists had a hand in Chang's revolt.

JEW WHO KILLED NAZI CONVICTED, GETS 18 YEARS

David Frankfurter Shot Wilhelm Gustloff, German Party Organizer in Switzerland.

By the Associated Press. CHUR, Switzerland, Dec. 14.—David Frankfurter, young Jewish medical student, was convicted today of the killing of Wilhelm Gustloff, Nazi organizer in Switzerland, and sentenced to 18 years in prison. Frankfurter was ordered expelled from Swiss territory after serving his sentence. He was given credit for eight months which he has already spent in jail.

The 18-year term had been demanded by the prosecution during final summations Saturday, in which Frankfurter was charged with premeditated murder.

The defense contended the student was actuated by "hatred of national socialism resulting from persecution of Jews in Germany."

The 27-year-old Frankfurter, who said he was the son of a Rabbi in Yugoslavia, testified earlier at his trial he once considered trying to assassinate Reichsfuehrer Hitler and German Propaganda Minister Joseph Goebbels.

He decided against such a step, he said, because he feared it would cause anti-Jewish reprisals in Germany.

Gustloff's widow told police Frankfurter appeared at her house Feb. 4, asking to see her husband. She let him into the study, she declared. As soon as the 40-year-old Nazi leader entered the room, Frankfurter pulled a pistol from his pocket and fired five shots, all of which struck Gustloff.

Frankfurter fled but later surrendered to police.

The German Ambassador to Switzerland protested against the killing and Reichsfuehrer Hitler attended Gustloff's funeral in Germany.

The Swiss Government replied by barring the Nazi organization which Gustloff headed.

ROOSEVELT DUE TO REACH CHARLESTON, S. C., TOMORROW

President Expected to Land There From South America and Go Directly to Washington.

By the Associated Press. WITH PRESIDENT ROOSEVELT AT SEA, Dec. 14.—The United States Cruise Indianapolis bearing President Roosevelt back to the United States from South America steamed past the Bahamas today, far out to sea off the East Florida coast. The President is scheduled to land at Charleston, S. C., early tomorrow, ending a 12,250-mile journey. He probably will go directly to Washington.

The commanders of the Indianapolis and the coast cruiser Chester said the 21-day trip, all factors considered, was one of the smoothest.

For purposes of comparison, it should be noted that the preliminary statistics are concerned only with taxable incomes. In a recent report, estimated that the national income paid out in wages, salaries, dividend payments, interest, and the like, amounted to $33,500,000,000 in 1935. Thus the $17,006,476,000 reported in individual income tax returns was less than a third of the national income. Also to be noted in the fact that less than 4 percent of the population are required to file income tax returns and that less than 2 percent actually pay the tax.

Analysis of the statistics for the 4 percent of the population reveal some interesting comparisons. For instance, the number of persons with net incomes of more than $100,000—the figures usually taken to denote a millionaire—was 2524 in 1935, as compared with 1891 in 1934. In 1934 there were 14,816 persons in this class, with a total net income of $4,368,151,000. In 1935 the "millionaire" group had an aggregate of $568,388,000, as compared with $416,389,000 in 1934.

Last year this group constituted 0.09 of those making returns, they reported 8.78 per cent of the net income, and paid $7,342 per cent of the individual income tax. It is interesting to note that individuals with incomes of $50,000 and over paid $4,144 per cent of the tax. In 1934 the $100,000 and over group

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The small group of persons with net incomes of more than $1,000,000 increased from 32 in 1934 to 41 last year, the Bureau of Internal Revenue announced today in its "Preliminary Statistics of Income for 1935." The group had its largest membership in 1929 when 517 persons reported annual net incomes of $1,000,000 or more for a total of $1,212,098,000, or about 5 per cent of the Federally taxed individual income that year.

In 1935, the 41 multimillionaires reported total net income of $73,630,000, on which they paid a total Federal tax of $41,499,000. Their total gross income amounted to $81,870,000 and they were permitted to take $18,040,000 in deductions. The group represented .001 per cent of the total number of returns, .5 per cent of the total reported net income and 6.344 per cent of the total individual income tax collected.

In 1934 the 32 multi-millionaires had a total gross income of $69,245,000, deductions of $12,859,000, net income of $56,386,000, and paid a total tax of $31,611,000. In that year the group represented .001 per cent of the total returns, .45 per cent of the total reported net income and paid 6.24 per cent of the total individual income tax.

One income above $4,000,000. Among the 41 members of the 1935 group there was one person with a net income between $4,000,000 and $5,000,000. The others were seven with incomes between $3,000,000 and $4,000,000; two between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000; eight between $1,500,000 and $2,000,000 and 23 between $1,000,000 and $1,500,000. In 1934 there was one person with an income of more than $3,000,000. No such income was reported in 1935.

The Bureau of Internal Revenue is on returns filed up to Aug. 31. The total returns for 1935 numbered 4,473,426 and noted total net income of $14,656,079,000, and gross income of $17,006,476,000 before deductions.

The comparable 1934 figures were $12,456,262,000 on total net income and $14,746,558,000 on gross income. Of the 1935 returns, however, only 2,067,736 reported taxable income. The total income tax paid in 1935 amounted to $654,116,000. The number of returns increased by 485,157, or 12.2 per cent in comparison with 1934; the total net income increased by $2,199,816,930, or 17.7 per cent, and tax paid or liability incurred increased $147,634,938, or 23.1 per cent.

The average net income of the 4,473,426 returns in 1935 was $3,276, with an average tax of $146, or 4.46 per cent of net income. The average return was $3,232, the average tax was $312, or 4.07 per cent of net income. The 1935 average tax on taxable returns was $312. The 1934 average tax on taxable returns was $289.

89 Per Cent Under $5000. The Bureau of Internal Revenue estimated that of the 4,473,426 total returns, $399,827, or 89 per cent, represented net income under $5000. This group had 59 per cent of the total net income reported, or $8,714,063,000, and paid $44,763,000 of the taxes, or 5.3 per cent.

It is interesting to note that the 41 multi-millionaires paid $41,499,000 in taxes on their total net income of $73,630,000. The answer, of course, is that the multi-millionaires paid in normal and surtaxes more than 50 per cent of their net income into the Treasury.

For purposes of comparison, it should be noted that the preliminary statistics are concerned only with taxable incomes. In a recent report, estimated that the national income paid out in wages, salaries, dividend payments, interest, and the like, amounted to $33,500,000,000 in 1935. Thus the $17,006,476,000 reported in individual income tax returns was less than a third of the national income. Also to be noted in the fact that less than 4 percent of the population are required to file income tax returns and that less than 2 percent actually pay the tax.

Analysis of the statistics for the 4 percent of the population reveal some interesting comparisons. For instance, the number of persons with net incomes of more than $100,000—the figures usually taken to denote a millionaire—was 2524 in 1935, as compared with 1891 in 1934. MADRID ARMIES SETTLE DOWN FOR ALL-WINTER SIEGE

Defense Council Orders Complete Reorganization of Militia as Means of Obtaining Discipline.

NEW REBEL ATTACK IN UNIVERSITY CITY

Insurgent Tanks, Supported by Infantry and Machine Gunners, Fail to Break Through.

By the Associated Press. MADRID, Dec. 14.—The Defense Council ordered complete reorganization today of its militia forces in preparation for an all-winter siege by Fascist rebels trying to capture the capital. The Government planned the reorganization as a means of obtaining strict discipline.

Insurgent tanks, supported by infantry and machine gun units, made a two-hour attack on Government lines in University City, but the defenders held firm.

In was announced 60,000 non-combatant men, women and children had been evacuated from the capital in the last week. Of these, 30,000 were children.

Observers continued to feel that the reduction in military activity indicated the Fascists had abandoned their efforts to smash their way into the city and had settled down to an attempt to starve the city.

Madrid Rejects Plebiscite. Newspapers in the capital reported the Government would reject any effort of foreign mediation of the conflict between the French and Spanish governments.

"The plebiscite places the legitimate Spanish Government on the same level as the insurgents," one paper said. "The Spanish Government, therefore, cannot accept the plans proposed by those countries out of good will."

The Air Ministry reported bombardments demolished two insurgent concentration points, Abrojos and Amanas, behind the Madrid lines.

Official reports confirmed the loss of 47 lives when the Government submarine C-3 was torpedoed by another submarine, "evidently foreign," off Malaga last week.

Flyer Franco Shot Down. Air Ministry authorities said yesterday a Government plane on the Bay of Biscay coast had brought down a Fascist pursuit plane piloted by Major Ramon Franco, brother of the insurgent commander, Gen. Francisco Franco.

One of the flyers was killed by machine gun bullets, the Government said, and the other escaped. Which was Maj. Franco was not specified.

The Franco, a trans-Atlantic flyer, was air attaché of the Spanish Embassy in Washington until after the outbreak of the civil war. Dismissed by the Madrid Government, he announced he would return to Spain to fight for his brother. He was last reported at Naples, Italy last Thursday.

Fascists Outside Madrid Said to Be Awaiting Reinforcements.

By the Associated Press. WITH INSURGENT FORCES OUTSIDE MADRID, Dec. 14.—A driving rain and cold winds from the Guadarrama Mountains swept the front-line trenches today. Insurgent planes made quick raids from time to time, bombing the enemy entrenchments around the capital.

The Fascists, holding suburban houses on the western edge of the city, apparently were awaiting reinforcements.

Germany Doubts if Spanish War Can Be Mediated.

By the Associated Press. BERLIN, Dec. 14.—Germany declared last night its readiness to discuss with other Governments any practical concrete proposal for conciliation in the Spanish civil war, but questioned whether conciliation could be achieved.

The declaration was contained in the German reply to the Anglo-French appeal for an international effort to mediate in the conflict.

Germany questioned whether it was not too late to shut off the flow of foreign volunteers into the Spanish fighting zone. It likewise questioned whether it was possible to reach conciliation between the Spanish Fascist junta at Burgos and its "anarchistic" opponents.

The memorandum pointed out that Germany last August urged measures against volunteers.

It said Germany "regretted very

EX-KING EDWARD AT ROTHSCHILDS' ESTATE IN AUSTRIA

Plays Golf and Arranges for Treatment of Old Ear Ailment by Vienna Specialist.

HEAVY GUARD ABOUT ENZESFELD CHATEAU

He Has Visited Baron There Before—Mrs. Simpson Guarded at Cannes After Abusive Letters.

By the Associated Press. VOESLAU, Austria, Dec. 14.—Former King Edward VIII, closely guarded in the chateau of Baron Eugene de Rothschild at Enzesfeld after his hurried trip from England, had an appointment today to consult a Vienna specialist about a long-standing ear ailment.

The Duke of Windsor—the title he now bears since giving up his throne for Mrs. Wallis Warfield Simpson—arrived in Austria last night. He was expected to call at the Vienna clinic of Prof. Heinrich Neumann late in the day after all other patients had left, attendants said.

During the drive from the Vienna station to the country estate, it was noted the former sovereign held his hand over his ear. Neumann declined to discuss the nature of the Duke's trouble, but it was learned that the treatments will consist of X-ray light rays and rinsing the inner ear.

Neumann has treated him on previous visits to Vienna. The specialist confined himself to a statement that the ear trouble was not serious and that the treatments were of a nature to remove infection from becoming worse. Ear specialists believe the ailment might have been caused either by a fall from a horse or by infection following bathing.

In Vienna it was believed the former ruler first came to Austria as a "work breaker" after the Austrian custom, with a meat dish.

The former King began his day at 7 o'clock at the rambling, red-roofed castle of 60 rooms. He ate a light breakfast and played golf for an hour and a half on the private course. Then he returned for a "work break" after the Austrian custom, with a meat dish.

The day was cold and cloudy. There were 20 gendarmes and detectives on guard at the front gates, and it was estimated 120 others were deployed about the grounds. Motorists and pedestrians were kept at distances of a half mile to a mile. Servants were forbidden to talk to callers.

Closely Guarded During Trip. Watchmen patrolled the entire railroad line from the Austrian border to Vienna and from Vienna to the Enzesfeld estate when the royal visitor arrived. A gendarme was posted every one-half kilometer. He also was closely guarded during his journey through France and Switzerland.

A police car accompanied the Duke and his party from Vienna to the estate, 25 miles from the capital. After he passed the Vienna city limits, police blocked off the road for 10 minutes.

The Austrian press welcomed the Duke, saying it hoped he would stay long. Official Austria welcomed him as a tourist attraction. The public remembered him as a frequent visitor, sometimes accompanied by Mrs. Simpson.

The Duke is not a stranger at Enzesfeld. Last summer during his Dalmatian vacation he was a guest of the Baron, whose wife is the former Kathleen Wolff of Philadelphia.

The Baron's estate has a private golf course, but winter sports are more in order. The Duke brought his skis for exercise on the snow-covered Alps.

Calls for Austrian Food. The visitor got his first taste of Austrian food this trip, a route from Zurich, Switzerland. Leaving Innsbruck, he called for some of the native dishes. The chef complied with a Tyrolean omelette, a mixture of eggs and finely-chopped ham and potatoes. The Duke asked for fresh trout, but was disappointed. In mid-afternoon he ordered a bottle of whisky.

Crowd at railroad stations got a few glimpses of the visitor. Curious onlookers peering through the train windows at Innsbruck saw him adjusting his necktie. Baffled, he turned aside.

Women tittered at the antics of Slippers, the Duke's favorite Cairn terrier, when he alighted at Salzburg with the animal under his arm. Unmindful, he walked up and down the platform exercising the dog until the train resumed its journey.

Countess de Rothschild has been close to royalty during many of

INJUNCTION LIMITS TVA POWER EXPANSION

Negotiating of New Contracts Barred by Federal Judge at Nashville.

By the Associated Press. NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 14.—United District Judge John J. Gore issued a temporary injunction today imposing strict limitations on the extension or expansion of power facilities of the Tennessee Valley Authority.

Nineteen private utility companies, challenging the constitutionality of the TVA, asked that the injunction be to effective until their suit can be tried on its merits. The suit is set for hearing March 8, before Judge Gore.

The injunction did not stop dam building, nor interfere with electric service to customers now being supplied by the Government agency. It restrained the authority, however, from soliciting new customers or negotiating new contracts.

POPE'S ILLNESS COMPLICATED BY VARICOSE STATE OF LEG

He Reads Himself to Sleep After Sitting Up Several Hours for Church Business.

By the Associated Press. VATICAN CITY, Dec. 14.—Attendees of Pope Pius XI said today the circulatory stagnation which has caused his intense pain in moving his legs, has been complicated by a varicose condition in the left leg.

The Pope's doctors said his tenacious will had been his "best remedy" during the last few days.

The Pope read himself to sleep last night with a book written by Marshal Emilio de Bono and Pietro Badoglio on the Ethiopian War.

Helen Pierce Breaker Who Ended Life in France Prepared It for 8 Months.

By the Associated Press. PARIS, Dec. 14.—Mrs. Helen Pierce Breaker, portrait photographer, formerly of St. Louis, left a 60-page suicide letter, written over a period of eight months before she was found dead in a gas-filled room of her apartment last Friday, police announced today.

In the letter, in the form of a memoir, Mrs. Breaker recorded her thoughts from time to time, saying she was tired of living. The document, begun last April, was addressed to the Chief of Police of suburban Auteuil.

Her body was found in her kitchen by a friend whom she had asked to visit her. Her head was in a pillow near a gas stove, the burners of which were open but not lighted.

Mrs. Breaker, who was 45 years old, left St. Louis 10 years ago, after her divorce from George J. Breaker, an attorney, to develop her talent as an amateur photographer and became one of the most widely known portrait photographers in Europe.

She was in poor health and her eyesight was beginning to fail last summer when her brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. R. M. C. Ormrod of St. Louis, visited her in Paris. Recent letters from her, however, indicated she had improved in health and was going ahead with her work.

Her father was Lawrence B. Pierce, wealthy builder and operator of the Pierce and Postmen's Bank Buildings. Her mother, Mrs. Lucile Alexander Pierce, died here last Oct. 13. Her two sons, Lawrence, 17 years old, and Manly, 15, are in school in the East. A brother, Richard Badoglio on the Ethiopian War.

FEDERAL COURT ORDERS INQUIRY IN VOTE FRAUD

Judge Albert L. Reeves Tells Panel, "I Cannot Sit Quietly and Witness the Open Flouting of the Election Laws."

RECORDS IN FOUR WARDS CALLED FOR

They Include Those of First, a Boss Pendergast Stronghold—"Don't Be Intimidated by Big Names," Jurist Directs.

Special to the Post-Dispatch. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—Judge Albert L. Reeves today instructed a Federal grand jury to investigate alleged election frauds here.

A subpoena duces tecum was issued by Judge Reeves, summoning members of the Election Board to testify before the grand jury. The subpoena also requisitioned ballot boxes and records from 16 precincts in the First, Third, Tenth and Twelfth wards. The First ward is one of the strongholds of Boss Tom Pendergast's machine.

Stating he had been informed that various types of frauds were practiced at the recent election, Judge Reeves declared:

"When a dishonest vote is introduced into the ballot box, it tends to contaminate the whole Government. A fraudulent ballot is a common enemy, a canker gnawing from within. We cannot surrender our ballot box to plug-uglies and hoodlums who parade the streets with machine guns. We must not stand there any longer. I cannot sit quietly in my district and witness the open flouting of election laws."

If the ballot boxes and their contents are needed, the Judge said they would be available. "Don't Be Afraid of 'Big Names,'" he said.

If there were crimes against civil rights, if the naturalization laws were violated, Judge Reeves demanded that the jury get the facts, indict as it saw fit and lay the whole matter before him.

He urged

R. SHAD BENNETT DEFENSE WITNESS AT MUENCH TRIAL

He Tells of Conference With Defendants and Report Later That Auto Had Been Wrecked.

CALLED IN REBUTTAL
TO MRS. THOMASSON

On Heated Cross-Examination, Perjury Charge Against Helen Berroyer Is Brought Out.

R. Shad Bennett, attorney, was the first defense witness today as the main trial of Mrs. Nellie Tipson Muench and three co-defendants went into its sixteenth day before a jury in Federal Judge George H. Moore's court.

Mrs. Muench, her husband, Dr. Ludwig O. Muench, Attorney Wilfred Jones, the baby broker, and Mrs. Helen Berroyer are charged with using the mails in furtherance of a scheme to defraud Dr. Marshall Pitzman, wealthy bachelor physician, by convincing him falsely that Mrs. Muench was the mother of a child and he was its father.

The obvious purpose of the defense in putting Bennett on the stand was to make an attack on that part of the story told by Mrs. Grace Thomasson, Government witness, in which she testified she was commissioned to get a baby in Chicago to be taken into court in Kansas City and "established" as the "real child" of Anna Ware. At that time, the middle of December, 1935, Rush H. Limbaugh, Special Commissioner of the St. Louis Court of Appeals, already had held that a baby boy, previously taken from the Muench home by the court, was actually the child of Anna Ware, unmarried Pennsylvania housemaid. The child, which had been palmed off by the Muenches as their own, was returned to its real mother by court order Dec. 19.

Bennett testified that several meetings between himself and Mrs. Thomasson in December of that year, she had told him she herself had taken the child of Anna Ware, that she had intended to "fool a Texas cattlemen" into believing that it was his and her child, and that she had failed and the baby was being kept by a woman in Chicago. She added, he said, that State Representative Edgar J. Keating of Kansas City, counsel for the Muenches in the habeas corpus suit in which Anna Ware had won custody of her child, had offered her $2000 if she could produce "the real baby."

Mrs. Thomasson's testimony on this point was that Keating had agreed to have a Kansas City court establish the identity of the baby she was to get as the Ware baby, and he wanted to have it done in Kansas City "in his own back yard."

Remarkable that he told her he did not believe her story, Bennett related that on Dec. 16 Mrs. Thomasson and Jones visited him in his office at the Telephone building and that there he dictated, at her direction, an affidavit to be signed by the woman in Chicago who had the Ware baby.

Short-hand Notebook Produced.

Verne R. C. Lacy, counsel for Jones, and himself a defendant in a pending disbarment suit, asked Bennett if he had the notebook used by his stenographer on this occasion. Bennett said he had, and handed the lawyer a short-hand notebook in which he testified the affidavit was taken down.

Mrs. Thomasson, he testified, said she was going to take the affidavit to Keating after it had been signed to convince him she could produce the Ware baby, in the intention of getting some or all the $2000 offered by the Kansas City lawyer if she would get the baby.

At this meeting in his office, Bennett said, he went out and got a check cashed for $50, giving it to Jones, who had said he and Mrs. Thomasson needed money to get to Chicago to lead the child.

During the account, Lacy asked the witness a leading question, to which the Government's objection was sustained. Bennett then answered it anyhow, and for his answer was rebuked by the Court, who said sternly that he had ruled on the objection and that Bennett, as a lawyer, should know better than to answer it.

Conference at Hotel.

Continuing, Bennett said that late in the evening of Dec. 16, 1935, he was called on the telephone by Jones, who asked him to come to the Biltmore Hotel. Arriving there, he found Mrs. Thomasson, Jones and Mrs. Muench.

Telling of this same conference, Mrs. Thomasson had testified that she was here and Jones received $400 from Bennett to be used in getting the child to be palmed off as the Ware baby. She and Jones left about 2 a. m. for Chicago, she testified, in Mrs. Berroyer's car, driven by Mrs. Muench's Negro chauffeur.

Bennett denied that he gave any money to Jones or Mrs. Thomasson on that occasion. He said that during the conference he sent his secretary out for sandwiches, and recalled that someone "was call-

Found Murdered on Kansas Farm

Mrs. Michael Harer, 49 years old, 2212A Victor street, was killed last night when struck by an automobile, the driver of which didn't stop, while walking in Hampton avenue at Walsh street. There are no sidewalks at that point.

Four pieces of a broken radiator emblem from a Plymouth automobile and the cover of a crank opening were found at the scene. An attendant at a filling station in the neighborhood gave police a description of a damaged automobile, which, he said, stopped at his station after midnight. Police began a canvass of garages and repair shops in their search for the machine.

Mrs. and Mrs. Abraham Engel, 4418 Allemania avenue, passing in their automobile, saw Mrs. Harer's body in the street, and notified police. Patrolmen Chris Fehr and Claude Travis, sent to the scene in a radio car, had driven over Hampton avenue five minutes earlier and commented on the hazard caused by the lack of sidewalks after seeing a woman, presumably Mrs. Harer, walking in the street.

Mrs. Harer was pronounced dead of a skull injury at City Hospital and the body was taken to the morgue where cards found in her purse led to identification. The purse was picked up 30 feet from where the body was lying.

Mrs. Harer spent yesterday with her husband and daughter at her home and was returning to a residence in the 4700 block of Vienna avenue, where she was employed as housekeeper, when struck.

Man Walking on County Highway Killed by Auto.

Clarence J. Humphrey, 41, a shoe-worker of St. Charles, was killed when struck by an automobile while walking on St. Charles road, two blocks east of Lindbergh boulevard, last night with his son, 10. The boy was not hurt.

Humphrey, who had been driving with his wife, Edna, and two children, was rolling a flat tire along the highway to a service station when hit by an automobile driven by Lyman J. Miller, manager of a floor surfacing machine company, who resides at 5206A Waterman avenue. Miller said he intended to avert to pass the pedestrians, but was prevented from doing so by a passing automobile. Officers called to the scene, said visibility was poor, due to smoke.

Humphrey was pronounced dead of a fractured skull and a broken neck.

County Sheriff Seeks Order to Destroy Slot Machines.

Deuser Has 231 Gambling Devices Seized in Raid Since August, 1935.

Sheriff Philip G. Deuser filed a petition in Circuit Court at Clayton today seeking an order authorizing him to destroy 231 gambling devices seized in raids since August, 1935.

The devices include slot machines, pin ball machines, punch boards and merchandise-dispensing devices. Fifty more machines are being held by the Sheriff but will not be destroyed because charges are still pending against their former owners.

Senator's Daughter Injured.

Mrs. L. D. C. Bean Seriously Hurt in Apartment Gas Explosion.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—A gas explosion which ripped out a 20-foot section of brick wall in her apartment inflicted serious injuries today on Mrs. Beatrice Bean, 23-year-old daughter of Senator Burke of Nebraska.

The explosion apparently due to gas escaping from a stove jet, occurred in the kitchen. Mrs. Bean was alone. Another resident of the apartment house who ran in and extinguished the young woman's flaming clothes was burned on the hands.

Mrs. Bean was married to Louie Don Coimer Bean, 28, a Census Bureau employe, last June.

ST. LOUISAN LOSES SUIT FOR FATHER'S INSURANCE

U. S. Supreme Court Refuses to Review R. D. Moore's Claim
Under Accident Policy.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The suit of Roger D. Moore, St. Louis attorney, to collect $21,552 in accident insurance from the Ocean Accident and Guarantee Corporation, Ltd., on account of the death of his father, John A. Moore, failed today when the United States Supreme Court refused to review a judgment returned against Moore in the Eighth District Circuit Court of Appeals.

The lower court had reversed a jury verdict awarding Moore the sum, returned in January, 1935, in District Court in St. Louis. The elder Moore, a retired attorney, was drowned in a bathtub in his home in February, 1933. He had been partly paralyzed and speechless as a result of a fall some time before, and his son contended that his father caused the drowning. The company replied there was no evidence of complete disability following the fall and that death was caused by disease.

The St. Louis Federal Court verdict against the insurance company had been returned in favor of Mrs. Ethel Moore, widow of the deceased. She was killed in an automobile accident near Hannibal, Mo., last June, and the litigation was taken up by her son, Roger Moore. He resides at 6635 Pershing avenue, University City, and is consul in St. Louis for Peru.

VOTE FRAUD INQUIRY
FEDERAL GRAND JURY

If you find them in high authority.

Turning to the subject of corrupt practices, Judge Reeves told the jury: "If you find in any precinct that any person or persons gave money or made a promise to the voters, or that you find any duty under your oath to move on that person or those persons."

In the beginning Judge Reeves outlined three points of Federal law under which he expected the jury to move on persons he said he had been informed had violated statutes in the last election. He pointed out it was a congressional election, that a President and a Vice-President were voted on, and, therefore, the election fell clearly within the jurisdiction of a Federal grand jury and a Federal court.

Three Laws Ruled On.

The three laws mentioned by him are: the Federal Corrupt Practices Act, crimes against civil rights, and the naturalization law.

"If someone should say to an un-naturalized person at the polling place: 'It is all right, go ahead,' then that man is a conspirator and guilty under the Federal law," the judge said.

He then pointed out that the jury was to decide if a group got together and talked over such matters, resulting in such votes being cast, then all were guilty of a conspiracy.

AUTO DRIVER FINED $125

Accused of Leaving Crash Scene; License Suspended for 6 Months.

Eugene Moynihan, a plumber, 3942 Maffitt avenue, was fined $125 and his driver's license was suspended for six months by Police Judge Edward M. Ruddy, who today found him guilty of careless driving and leaving the scene of an accident.

William Cole, 4211 Botanical avenue, said his automobile was struck by another Nov. 20 while he was driving south on Newstead avenue, near St. Louis avenue. He testified the driver of the other car was Moynihan, and that he and other witnesses obtained the license number of Moynihan's automobile as he drove off. The defendant denied being in the accident and said he would appeal.

16 Americans Leave Spain.

BUSSES PROPOSED FOR 39TH ST. LINE

Public Service Co. to Seek
Street Cars.

The Public Service Co. proposes to substitute bus service for street cars on the Thirty-ninth street line, one of the shortest in the city. Authority was granted today by Federal Judge Charles B. Davis to Henry W. Kiel, operating trustee under bankruptcy proceedings, to apply to the State Public Service Commission for permission to make the change.

The street car line, 1.84 miles in length, extends from Thirty-ninth street and Park avenue north and west over Thirty-ninth street, Chouteau avenue and Manchester avenue to Sarah street.

An order for the scrapping of repair shop material and supplies, having inventory value of $17,427 but made obsolete by the retirement in recent months of a number of street cars from service was approved by Judge Davis. It was expected $862 would be realized from the salvage.

Time for filing complete schedules and reports disclosing the condition of the company for the purpose of reorganization was extended to April 5, 1937.

Action, Closing New Measure Pending.

Twenty cases in which St. Louis milk distributors are charged with violation of the city milk control ordinance were continued generally in police courts and the Court of Criminal Correction today at the request of Assistant City Counselor Martin Barrow.

Calling attention to the standard milk control ordinance passed by the Board of Aldermen last Friday, Barrow requested continuance of cases pending under the old ordinance with the understanding that they would be prosecuted if any of the defendants should be guilty of violation of the later regulations. The new ordinance authorizes the Board of Public Service to lower the grade of a distributor's product for violation, substituting this method for the old enforcement plan of Police Court prosecution.

Barrow said the milk industry had suffered a loss of public confidence as a result of the Police Court prosecutions and expressed the opinion that further action was unnecessary in view of the new ordinance.

Off Cartagena.

LONDON, Dec. 14.—The Lloyd's signal station at Gibraltar reported tonight the British steamer British Isles sent word that an unidentified Russian steamer was on fire in the Mediterranean and that the crew apparently had been picked up by a Spanish warship.

The position of the Russian vessel was given as latitude 36.39 north, longitude 0.15 east. (This would place it southeast of Cartagena, Spanish Mediterranean city.)

14 INJURED WHEN STRIKERS
FIGHT WORKERS AT READING

Police Use Tear Gas Bombs to Stop Clash at Berkshire Knitting Mills.

By the Associated Press.

READING, Pa., Dec. 14.—Fourteen persons were injured and six automobiles damaged as strike pickets and workers clashed today at the Berkshire Knitting Mills.

Three strike sympathizers, two of the women, were arrested on charges of assault and battery and inciting to riot after policemen quelled the outbreak with tear gas bombs.

Police said the disorders began when some pickets left the picket line to intercept workers who had left automobiles and started to walk a block to the mill entrance. Strikers and sympathizers said they were slugged by mill employes as the latter pushed through the picket lines to enter the plant. Several policemen were hit by stones.

MOTORMAN SHOT TO DEATH ON STREET CAR; WIFE HELD

Woman at Charleston, S. C., Quoted as Saying She Killed Her Straggled Husband.

CHARLESTON, S. C., Dec. 14.—Passerby who investigated a stalled street car on a suburban track, found the motorman, Grover P. McClure, 50 years old, dead of three bullet wounds in the back of his head yesterday.

McClure's estranged wife, the coroner reported, collapsed in a neighbor's house a few minutes later and cried, "call a doctor, I've shot myself." She was charged with killing him.

Mrs. McClure, 41, shot three times in the abdomen, was sent to a hospital.

Police quoted Mrs. McClure as saying that since she and her husband could not live together, they might as well both die.

SEXTILLION-MILE PHOTOGRAPH

Light From Nebulae Requires 326,000,000 Years to Reach Earth.

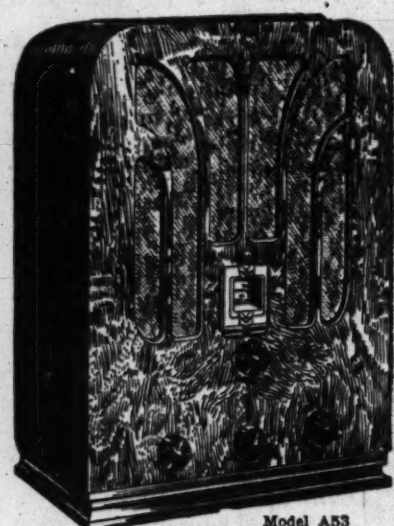

PASADENA, Cal., Dec. 14.—The most distant photographs ever taken—two sextillion miles, which is 2 plus 21 ciphers—were identified today as 200 nebulae, each as large or larger than the star system to which the sun belongs. The identification as a new family of nebulae was announced in the annual report of Mount Wilson Observatory.

The cluster has been named "Hydra No. 1." Its light requires 226,000,000 years to reach the earth.

R. S. Bennett Defense

the night of Oct. 20, 1935, when Mrs. Thomasson had testified, there was a fight during a conference over the baby case and Mrs. Muench, cut Wilfred Jones on the hand with an ornamental sword she snatched off the wall.

She Remembers Aug. 17.

On cross-examination, she was unable to say where she was on other nights, which the District Attorney apparently named at random, until he mentioned Aug. 17, when she said she got home about 1:30 a. m., apparently meaning on the early morning of Aug. 18. It was on this morning that the Muenches claimed a baby was born to Mrs. Muench. The time set by them was only a few hours after Anna Ware's baby had been taken from her, and the child represented as their own subsequently was taken from them and given by the St. Louis Court of Appeals to Anna, as her own child.

The witness said that when she returned to the Muench home that night, she saw there Mrs. Muench, a baby, Dr. Muench, Mrs. Berroyer and "another doctor." Mrs. Berroyer had omitted to tell of this night in her testimony, thus avoiding the strange yarn she had previously related about being in the Muench home, hearing Mrs. Muench in the agonies of childbirth and then being told she had had a baby. Her lawyers successfully prevented the Government from asking her about the matter in cross-examination.

At this juncture in Mary Cobb's testimony, recess was taken for lunch.

Jones in Muench Home. When the afternoon session opened, Mary Cobb testified, in answer to the concluding question of the cross-examination, that Wilfred Jones had been to the Muench home "quite often" during the time she worked there.

The next witness, Guy Mullen, undertaker, gave a different version of the visit of Mrs. Grace Thomasson to him in November or December of last year in an attempt to raise money to get a third baby at Chicago to be palmed off as "the real Ware baby."

Mrs. Thomasson had testified she told him Mrs. Muench had sent her, and at first, on instructions of Mrs. Muench, tried to tell him the baby to be gotten was actually the Ware child; but saw "it was no use trying to fool him," and admitted to him Muench cut Wilfred Jones on the hand with an ornamental sword and he then refused to give her any money.

Mullen's version was this: Mrs. Thomasson told him, "don't question me as to who sent me here;" represented it was the real Ware baby throughout, and appealed to him, "from a humanitarian standpoint, don't you think it would be a good idea to get the baby back for its mother? I have the baby; but we are very hard pressed for money; if we had funds we could get it at Chicago and produce it in court."

On cross-examination, Mullen said he knew Dr. Muench and had met Mrs. Muench once at her home, when he went there Nov. 18 or 19, 1935 to get the clothing of a musician, a patient of Dr. Muench's, who had died, and whom Mullen was burying.

Zeppenfeld on Stand.

The next witness was Robert M. Zeppenfeld, who testified he had been an attorney for Mrs. Muench, and that he was first employed to represent her in 1917. Zeppenfeld was her original attorney in the Kelley kidnapping case and he told the jury how he was called to represent her when she was first arrested in the case in February, 1934.

Dr. Pitzman had testified he gave Zeppenfeld a total of $10,500, and the canceled checks had been introduced in evidence. In questioning him, the defense attempted to show that all this money went to Zeppenfeld for his services, but Zeppenfeld gave testimony to that impression today.

Gave Money to Mrs. Muench.

He identified a check for $1500 which Dr. Pitzman gave him in the middle of March, 1934, and testified he took the money as a fee. But questioned about a second check, for $2000, he testified he cashed the check and gave the money to Mrs. Muench. She, he testified, executed notes for both checks, payable to Dr. Pitzman.

At this point a bailiff interrupted the proceedings and told the court one of the jurors was ill. After a short recess, in which the juror told Judge Moore he felt he required medical attention, court was adjourned at 3:10 p. m. until 10 a. m. tomorrow. The juror was suffering from a kidney ailment. It was said he would probably be able to continue in the trial tomorrow. If not, the alternate who has listened to the entire proceedings from a seat at the side of the jury box, probably will replace him.

CURTIS BOK GAVE $25,000 TO DEMOCRATIC CAMPAIGN

Donations by Two Cabinet Officers Also Reported; G. F. Gifts of $30,000 by Three Men.

By the Associated Press. WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Contributions of $25,000 by Curtis Bok of Philadelphia and $23,100 by J. M. Patterson of New York to the Democratic in the presidential campaign were reported today to the Senate Campaign Funds Investigating Committee.

Patterson, publisher, reported he also had contributed $1000 to the re-election campaign of Senator Norris of Nebraska, running as an independent. His Democratic donations included $1000 each to Gov. Herbert Lehman of New York and Frank Murphy, candidate for Governor in Michigan.

Other Democratic donations included: W. A. Harriman, New York, $5000; Attorney-General Cummins, $1450; Mrs. Cummings, $325; and Secretary of Labor Perkins, $325. The largest Republican contributions reported today were G. H. Worcester of Chicago and Henry W. Putnam of New York, each of whom gave $10,000, and William N. Elkins of Whittemarsh, Pa., who gave $10,010.

MAN WHO STARTED 25 FIRES GETS LIFE TERM FOR MURDER

Hayward Adams Caused Death of Superintendent of Boarding House He Had Fired Oct. 4.

By the Associated Press. PATTERSON, N. J., Dec. 14.—Hayward Adams, 23 years old, was sentenced to life imprisonment today on a charge of murder resulting from one of 25 fires which he admitted starting within little more than a year.

Adams offered no defense. His counsel pleaded for leniency on the ground it was a diseased mind, not a criminal one, which impelled the series of fires that terrified residents of one neighborhood. Thomas Gilmour, superintendent of an apartment house, was fatally burned Oct. 4 while arousing tenants after Adams had fired the building.

TEN YOUTHS AWAIT DEATH IN SING SING

Youngest at 17 Killed Store-keeper in $9 Robbery in New York.

By the Associated Press.

OSSENING, N. Y., Dec. 14.—With 10 youths under 21 years awaiting execution, the death house at Sing Sing prison is being called "The High School" today by the penitentiary's prisoners.

The youngest is James Sullivan of Brooklyn, who at 17 beat to death a store-keeper for $9. Warden Lewis E. Lawes said that never in the United States to his knowledge and never in the records of Sing Sing, where nearly 400 have been executed since the chair was installed, has such a number of young murderers awaited death.

The first of the youths to go to the chair will be Salvatore Scata, who, with five others, will die during the week of Jan. 4, 1937, for the robbery and murder of a Brooklyn subway employee. He is 18. Three others die the week of Jan. 11. They are Lawrence Jackson, Wentworth Springer and Robert Taliaferro, all of whom killed during robberies.

Henry Stevens, Frederick Fowler and Charles Ham die in the week of Jan. 18. Ham, in a robbery preceding the one in which he and Fowler shot a Harlem storekeeper, robbed a butcher shop. When the butcher was slow in opening a strong-box, Ham took the butcher's left hand in his own powerful right, laid it on a chopping block, swung a cleaver and chopped two of the butcher's fingers off.

No dates have been set for the executions of Sullivan, Alfred Volckman or Charles Waterbury, because their cases are awaiting affirmation of sentence by the Court of Appeals, which seldom reverses a jury decision.

Warden Lawes will have to put to death 15 men within 15 days. He is against capital punishment. Twenty-five condemned men are in death house cells now. By Feb. 15, all the 25—unless reprieved—will be executed and Robert Elliot, the executioner for Pennsylvania, New York, New Jersey and Massachusetts, will have received $3150, plus expenses.

COERCION IN VOTE CONTEST CHARGED IN NEW JERSEY

Witnesses Kidnaped, Handcuffed to Beds to Force Them to Sign Affidavits, Says G. O. P. Official.

By the Associated Press.

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 14.—Charges of abducting witnesses and handcuffing men to beds in order to force affidavits of fraudulent voting enlivened today a bitter post-election legislative contest, on the outcome of which hinged control of many State offices and largely of the State government itself.

The charges were made by Andrew O. Wittreich, Hudson County Republican chairman, on the eve of resumption of court hearings in the state senate contest in Cape May, second smallest county in the State. Wittreich is counsel for William C. Hunt, Republican, whose apparent 437-vote victory over Jesse D. Ludlum was challenged by Democrats on charges of fraudulent voting.

Control of Senate at Stake.

At stake in the contest is control of the 1937 Senate, which for the Democrats would mean domination of the Legislature for the first time in 22 years and a long-sought opportunity to attempt reorganization of the State government.

The Democrats captured the assembly, 39 to 21, in the November election. The Senate, with the Cape May contest undecided, stands 10 to 10. The Republican State Chairman Henry W. Jeffers, charged a Democratic plot to "steal" the election.

For the Republicans, victory meant power to block any assembly bills aimed at removing Republican officeholders. They could also prevent the election of the State Treasurer and Comptroller by a joint session.

To the Democratic charges of fraud and "repeater" voting, and to charges that voters were brought from Philadelphia to vote, the Democrats replied today that the hearings before Circuit Judge Wilfred H. Jayne in Cape May Courthouse would show "the Democrats are guilty of the charges they have made against the Republicans."

Improper Methods Charged.

"The high offices of the United States Government have been brought into action in this attempt to frustrate the will of the people of Cape May County," he said in a statement. "Hoover's famed G-men and United States marshals have headed a corps of trained investigators which ever since election have been seeking evidence of wholesale fraud without success."

"Abduction of witnesses, handcuffing of men to beds until they agreed to sign on the dotted line and every other method known to the secret police of the old world have been brought into play in this attempt to bolster the alleged fraud charges."

"Men have been taken from their beds at night, ill men have been given intoxicating liquors until ready to sign any kind of a statement, even women have been terrorized."

Several arrests have been made by Federal officials on charges of illegal voting for Federal office. Judge Jayne has power to order a certificate of election to Hunt or Ludlum or to withhold one from either. The contest may ultimately go to the Senate.

41 NET INCOMES

represented .047 per cent of the returns; 3.34 per cent of the reported income and paid 35.25 per cent of the tax. In 1934, the $50,000 and over group paid 51.93 per cent of the tax.

Distribution of Income.

The figures for the 4,473,426 persons making returns disclose how the reported income of $17,006,476,000 was distributed and what deductions were allowed.

Of the income reported, $9,838,112,000 came from wages, salaries, commissions, fees and the like—the group with incomes of less than $5000 receiving $7,069,212,000 from this source. The next largest item was income from dividends, $2,257,128,000, of which the under-$5000-a-year group got $476,324,000, and the over-$10,000-a-year group got $75,884,000. This latter group received only $905,000 in salaries, fees, etc.

The other sources of income for the entire taxable group were as follows: Business profit, $1,536,522,000; partnership profit, $710,521,000; capital net gain, $594,847,000; rents and royalties, $532,451,000; interest on Government bonds not wholly tax exempt, $42,232,000; fiduciary, $319,846; interest other than tax exempt, $878,232,000, and other income, $235,503,000.

Total deductions of $2,350,396,000 were distributed as follows: Business loss, $68,109,000; partnership losses, $22,998,000; net capital loss, $147,458,000; interest paid, $492,553,000; taxes paid, $616,911,000; contributions, $306,378,000, and miscellaneous, $907,086,000.

More detailed figures for 1934 were made available by the Bureau of Internal Revenue last night in its complete "Statistics of Income for 1934." This study of the 4,094,420 returns made that year analyzed the reported incomes by industries and geographic areas. Of the $125 returns filed from Missouri that year two were for incomes between

SIX WITNESSES TO SALOON KILLING TRACED BY POLICE

They Say Albin Yakutis Was Shot Without Warning by Customer With Whom He Was Talking.

A neatly dressed man, 30 to 35 years old, was sought by police today as the killer of Albin Yakutis, 21 years old, owner of a saloon at 1701 Cass avenue, who was shot to death behind the bar there about 11:15 o'clock Saturday night.

The killer was about 5 feet 10 inches tall, and weighed about 170 pounds. His complexion was dark, and he wore a dark suit, overcoat and hat. Apparently he was an acquaintance of Yakutis.

Police said they had learned that Yakutis was fond of gambling and frequented East Side resorts. They said that the shooting might have resulted from a quarrel with a gambling associate.

The description of the killer was given to police by six persons who were in the saloon at the time of the shooting. All fled, without notifying police, but they were rounded up early yesterday. Three of them had been playing cards in the saloon and the first names of two were found on a score pad they left on a table.

Shots Without Warning.

They agreed that the man who shot Yakutis entered the saloon four or five minutes before the shooting, ordered a glass of beer, and talked with Yakutis as he was drinking it. There was no argument, no sign of anger, but suddenly the man drew a revolver and fired four shots at Yakutis, wounding him twice in the abdomen. The killer ran out and the others followed.

Fingerprints were found on the glass from which the killer had been drinking, but police have not yet established whether they were the fingerprints of Yakutis or the man who killed him.

Three spent bullets also are held as clues. They were fired, apparently, from a .38 caliber revolver. One of them was found on the floor of the saloon and two on the sidewalk outside. There was a bullet hole in the window. Police were mystified by the bullets found outside the saloon as all the witnesses agreed that the four shots were fired at close range inside the saloon.

The shots aroused Steve Vezec, owner of a confectionery next door at 1705 Cass avenue, who ran to the saloon and found Yakutis unconscious. Vezec called police. Yakutis died without making a statement.

Tracing of Witnesses.

The card players' score pad bore the notation "Stanley," "Joe" and "Me." Stanley, police found, was Stanley Rozanski, 38 years old, 1531 North Seventeenth street, partner in the saloon. Joe is Joe Wysocki, 24 years old, 2134A Benton street. From them police obtained the names of the other witnesses who were Sam La Flore, 31, 1525 North Seventeenth street; Orville Ludwig, 22, 2328 Coleman street; Leo Dudek, 23, 1451A North Market street; and Henry Wiczarek, 23, 1623 North Seventeenth street. Dudek and Wiczarek were not at the card table but were drinking beer at the bar at the time of the shooting.

Yakutis was shot in the neck last May 17 in an altercation at the saloon with a man who had gone there to protest that his brother had been roughly treated by customers. Police think this incident had no connection with the murder.

Yakutis lived with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Yakutis, at 3230 Bailey avenue.

MAN WITH 5 OVERCOATS HELD

Admits He Got $600 Worth of Loot at Cleaning Shop.

Men's clothing valued at $600, which had been stolen Friday night from a cleaning establishment, was recovered yesterday following the arrest of a Negro who was questioned by police when they saw him carrying five overcoats.

Asked for an explanation, the Negro admitted he had entered the shop of Sam Kubernik, 1140 Walton avenue. He led them to his home, where the rest of the clothing was recovered.

$250,000 and $300,000 and one for an income between $300,000 and $400,000. To prevent identifications, these three persons were grouped together in the statistical tables. On a total net income of $378,455, they paid a total tax of $91,927.

In the Missouri group, there were also three persons with incomes between $200,000 and $250,000; three with incomes between $150,000 and $200,000; 17 with incomes between $100,000 and $150,000; and 123 with incomes between $50,000 and $100,000.

PAIR ACCUSED OF TORTURING AND ROBBING FARMER IN HOME

Men Held at Keytesville, Mo., After Identification by Two of Victims.

By the Associated Press.

KEYTESVILLE, Mo., Dec. 14.—Pete Kruger and Leonard Blackburn were charged today with the torture robbery of John Kahler, a bachelor, who lives north of Brunswick.

Sheriff W. S. Owen said Kahler and his housekeeper, a Mrs. Kothe, had identified the pair as the masked men who entered the farm house with a sawed-off shotgun Saturday night and bound up the four persons there with wire and rope.

Kahler said the men heated a stove poker and threatened him with it unless he told them where he kept his money. He told them he had none at the house as he kept it at a bank. They ransacked the house, he said, and took a watch, a $10 gold piece and $6 in currency. Sheriff Owen said Blackburn had served three years in prison at Jefferson City and six months in jail at St. Louis for larceny.

HEARING ON STREET CORNER FOR ALLEGED DRUNKEN DRIVER

Pittsburgh Judge Calls Doctor, Hears Testimony on Scene and Orders Man Held.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., Dec. 14.—Judge M. A. Musmanno held a hearing last night on a street corner where a man, charged with operating an automobile under the influence of liquor, was said to have struck two parked cars. Police had arrested him and notified Judge Musmanno, who said he "happened to be in the vicinity."

The jurist rounded up witnesses, swore them and took their testimony. He summoned a physician who pronounced the driver intoxicated. The judge ordered the man held in jail for court in default of $2500 bond.

LAW SCHOOL GOVERNMENT

Washington U. Students Adopt English Legal System.

Students of the Washington University School of Law have adopted a new form of student Government, based on the English bar system, in which the bar is organized into societies known as "Tanks." The new organization, designated "January Inn," will have supervision of student discipline and activities, freshman management and student assemblies.

Officers are James Anding, Delhi, La. president; Harry C. Deckert, 7466 Teasdale avenue, vice-president, and Lackland Bloom, 6808 Washington avenue, secretary-treasurer.

TWO FREED IN POISON DEATH OF GIRL IN AUTO

Potosi Prosecutor Dismisses Murder Warrants—Says Evidence Is Lacking.

Warrants charging Willard Gamble and Leroy Royer, young Washington County tiff miners, with the murder of Goldie Gay, 15 years old, who died of arsenic poisoning in their automobile Nov. 22, were dismissed for lack of evidence today by Prosecuting Attorney John Eversole of Potosi.

The youths were released from jail at Potosi, where they had been held since their arrest Dec. 6. Consistently they had denied any knowledge of the cause of Miss Gay's death and, with Miss Pearl Hawkins who was in the automobile also, had insisted Miss Gay had taken no food or drink in their presence. The warrants against the youths were based on a report of a St. Louis chemical laboratory that death was caused by arsenic. No charge was placed against Miss Hawkins, who was merely questioned and released.

Prosecutor Eversole said that dismissal of the warrants did not indicate that the investigation was ended. Prosecution will be begun, he said, if any evidence indicating murder is uncovered.

Gamble, 21 years old, and Royer, 17, said they had taken the two girls to a motion picture show in De Soto Saturday night, Nov. 21, and that after the show they went to a dance hall. On the way home to Richwoods Miss Gay sat in the back seat with one of the young men, who said he fell asleep and did not know until the Gay home was reached that anything was wrong with her. When the others were unable to arouse her, they tried to get her into the house without awakening her family, but her sister summoned a physician, who said she was dead.

ADDRESS ON CHRISTMAS WORK OF COMMUNITY COUNCIL

Radio Speaker Says Purpose Is to Suggest Alternatives to Usual Baskets

The work of the Christmas Bureau of the Community Council in helping private organizations distribute wisely Christmas gifts to needy families was described during the Community Forum radio broadcast on Station KSD yesterday by Mrs. M. H. Rodemeyer of the Community Council department of volunteer service.

The bureau was established 12 years ago, she said, to act as a clearing house for givers and recipients, in order to eliminate duplication of giving to certain families and unwise donations.

"Some families, struggling to maintain their pride in the bitterness and defeat of unemployment and other misfortunes, have been embarrassed to receive well-meant but nevertheless harmful Christmas visits from persons they did not know and who were not acquainted with their needs," she continued.

Wherever possible, the Christmas Bureau tries to suggest some alternative to the conventional Christmas basket. The bureau also encourages needy families to pin their own Christmas celebration.

OPOSSUM PICKED UP IN CITY

Weights Ten Pounds; Offer to Swap for Turkey Rejected.

An opossum weighing about 10 pounds was captured last night in the back yard of Dr. David C. Bosserman, 5912 Page boulevard, by William Brauer, a roomer there, who picked it up by the tail when it "played possum" and dropped it into a box.

Brauer found the animal not far from a turkey pen of a neighbor and offered to trade it for a turkey on the ground the capture had saved the turkeys, but the neighbor would not trade. Brauer is looking for someone who wants an opossum for Christmas dinner and who will save the pelt for him. Meanwhile Dr. Bosserman intends to exhibit the animal at a meeting tonight of Boy Scout Troop 101 at West Park Baptist Church, Wells and Hodiamont avenues.

JUDGE E. D. SHURTLEFF OF ILLINOIS DIES AT 73

Served 20 Years as Member of State Legislature and 45 on the Bench.

By the Associated Press.

MARENGO, Ill., Dec. 14.—Judge Edward D. Shurtleff died at his home here at 8:15 a. m. today. He was 73 years old. He had been ill with a heart ailment for more than a week.

He served 20 years as a member of the State Legislature and 45 on the bench of the Seventeenth Judicial Circuit. He sat in judgment in the case of Oscar Nelson, State Auditor of Public Accounts, who, in 1931, was tried for malfeasance in office after failure of the Waukegan State Bank. Judge Shurtleff directed a verdict of acquittal.

Other cases were concerned with the release of James "Fur" Sammons, Chicago gangster, convicted killer, whom he released from Joliet prison on a writ of habeas corpus; the trial of Russell McWilliams, Rockford youth, whom he sentenced to die for the killing of a street car motorman—a sentence later commuted to 99 years imprisonment by Gov. Henry Horner; and a hearing on the 1931 congressional reapportionment, which he declared invalid. The State Supreme Court sustained him.

During 20 years in the Legislature, from 1900 to 1920, he served as Speaker of the House from 1905 to 1911. Twice he served as chairman of the Republican party's State Central Committee.

In 1913, he guided the House through a legal tangle and was credited with saving from defeat the law giving the vote to women. During the fight on the law, the Democratic leaders moved to postpone consideration. Judge Shurtleff suggested that a two-thirds vote of the House could give precedence to Senate measures, of which the bill was one. His suggestion was followed, and the measure passed after four roll-calls.

In 1917, as Republican floor leader in the House, Shurtleff shaped Gov. Lowden's bills. He opposed passage of direct primary laws from 1905 to 1912.

Although he was a dry, Shurtleff voted against the search and seizure and enforcement act. In 1918, he voted for the National prohibition amendment.

Shurtleff was born, September 19, 1863, in Genoa, DeKalb County. His father, Alfred J. Shurtleff, was a descendant of the Shurtleff family that settled in Plymouth, Mass., in 1629, and his mother, Mary Fairchild Higby, was a direct descendant of William Brewster, who came over on the Mayflower. He attended Oberlin College for three years. At Marengo he entered a law office. In 1883, he went to Watertown, S. D., and was admitted to the bar in South Dakota in 1885. In 1888 he entered the lumber business with his father, and in 1898 opened a law office at Marengo. In 1921 he was appointed circuit judge of the seventeenth judicial circuit by Governor Lowden.

On June 25, 1890, he married Miss Elizabeth H. Sisson, Marengo, who survives with their two children, Maurice of Sterling, Ill., and Mrs. Frederick R. Kelley, Marengo.

Tragedy of Martin and Annie Lee McCallister
Near Belleville.

Eight-year-old Annie Lee McCallister and her brother, Martin, 4, were drowned yesterday when they broke through the thin ice on St. Louis Lake, a short distance from their home near Belleville. They were the children of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas McCallister, who with two other children live in a one-room shack on State street road, south of the city limits.

The bodies were recovered. The water is eight feet deep at the spot. A ragged hole in the ice gave evidence of the tragedy. A Boy Scout search party that formed when the children failed to return for the evening meal found the place. The brother and sister had gone out to play about 3 o'clock, taking with them a little red wagon.

Search of the lake was begun about 8 o'clock after 10 Boy Scouts, headed by Scout Executive A. J. Juncker of Belleville, had joined the group of volunteers who were looking around the neighborhood and a woods nearby. With Eagle Scout Arthur Baum, 17, and Life Scout Wesley Buecher, 18, Juncker went to the lake, at an amusement resort on South Belt Highway and State street road.

They found that the ice was of varying thickness, a half-inch deep in some places but considerably

By Dent McSkimming

Eight straight victories and the end not in sight. The Shamrocks won another game and many more friends by their fine display of soccer skill at Public Schools Stadium yesterday afternoon, defeating Sparta of Chicago, 4 to 0. The 2300 spectators appeared to enjoy the entertainment which approached cup game fury at times but was on the whole a clean, cleverly played contest.

"I don't mean to take any glory away from the Shamrocks when I say that the score does not indicate how closely the game was fought," said Charley Fencil, manager of the Chicago club after the game. "In all around teamplay, the Shamrocks were better than any St. Louis team I have ever seen. Our defense, I thought was good, but our forwards were never able to hit their top form, largely because of the absence of Munro and Sterba. But the Shamrocks deserved to win. I would like to meet them again with my team at full strength."

Fencil and his party had reason to kick about the 4-0 score. The first goal was the result of an accidental shot by the colorful John Tomich, who put the ball into his own goal, and the fourth was the result of a penalty kick awarded for illegal handling of the ball by the same Tomich.

Nilsen and Gonsalves Score.
But the other two were genuine in every respect. Scotty Nilsen hooked a fast drive into the upper corner of the Chicago goal for score No. 2 near the close of the first half, and Billy Gonsalves won congratulations even from the Chicago players for his spectacular left foot shot from outside the penalty area midway in the second half. They were two high-class shots.

Before the match was five minutes old it was quite apparent that the Shamrocks were up against the stoutest, smartest defense they have encountered this season. It was almost air-tight, the halfbacks and fullbacks covered so closely that no St. Louis player had a chance to take two steps with the ball before being tackled. Sparta's players had everything the Shamrocks had: ball control, physical equipment, football sense, speed where it was needed and the will to win. In the early stages of the game it was not apparent just how the St. Louis team could break down that defense in which Center Halfback Jerry Nudera was the guiding force.

Finally it was just a break of the luck that put the Shamrocks in front. After some neat midfield passing, Nilsen took the ball 30 yards out and sent a nice ground pass forward to Stratman, who was set for a shot at the penalty spot; but big John Tomich swept in from nowhere, trying to block Stratman's shot, tapped the ball into his own goal. Had the Sparta defense collapsed after such a discouraging blow the fans would not have been surprised, but there was not the least sign of quitting, nor even relaxing.

Some Clever Passing.
The bit of fancy passing between Watson and Gonsalves that led to the third goal tickled the spectators as good music delights a theatergoer. Their back-and-forth short pass went off so smoothly it looked as though there was no opponent within miles, but, as a matter of fact, the passes were placed precisely inches out of the reach of two Sparta players, each one close enough to lay his hand on the Shamrock artists. And when Gonsalves hit the ball with high, he almost broke the stitches.

Alec McNab, up against two remarkable players in Halfback Pearson and Fullback Mrnka, played one of the greatest games he has shown St. Louis fans in several seasons. With Gonsalves and Begley, he worked a triangle passing game that baffled the defenders.

Nilsen took a terrific pounding and mauling from Scott, Mrnka and Nudera, but he stood by his guns without a squawk.

Bill Lehman's work at left halfback saved the day when the left wing of the forward line threatened to collapse in the first half. Lehman is playing better soccer now than ever before in his career.

Wolfe and Fidler, the latter a heavy set, aggressive youngster, gave Gonsalves Rodriguez most cause for worry, but there were very real close calls. Vick was busy in midfield, but never dangerous in the penalty area, and Wright had few chances to shoot.

BURKES ELEVEN INCREASE LEAD IN PRO SOCCER

The Burke club of East St. Louis pulled further into the lead in the St. Louis Soccer League race by gaining a 1-1 draw with the fast-traveling Optimist club, while its nearest rival, Club Lotus, was suffering a 1-0 defeat at the hands of the Town Criers. The double-header was played on a well groomed field at West Side Park.

Both results were in more or less of the nature of a surprise. The Burkes have rarely been held so helpless in the matter of scoring as they were yesterday, and in the other game the Club Lotus team was expected to score at least two goals against a defense which has not been impressive. Eddie Hart's Optimists really gave the Burkes all the competition they wanted and were in a fair way to win the game on the strength of Flynn's early goal. However, a few minutes before the final whistle, the Spanish boys pressed hard and earned a corner kick. The veteran Red Diaz place his kick nicely and after a short clearance the ball reached Henry Stahl, who drove it home into the Optimist club net.

Center Halfback Pawlak of the Optimists suffered a painful injury when he was accidentally kicked in the mouth by his center half rival, Irish Gonzales.

of Heberger succeeded in his main task, but there was no polish to his game. Tom Erbe, at right fullback, took charge of the defense and went out looking for more work. Erbe has been a tremendous influence in the unbroken victory march.

Cleveland Club Here Next.
Graphite Bronze, one of Cleveland's strongest clubs, will be here next Sunday and Heidelberg of Pittsburgh, with Buff Donnell in the lineup, will be here Dec. 25 and 27, it was announced by Phil A. Riley, business manager of the Shamrocks.

Some Clever Passing.
The bit of fancy passing between Watson and Gonsalves that led to the third goal tickled the spectators as good music delights a theatergoer. Their back-and-forth short pass went off so smoothly it looked as though there was no opponent within miles, but, as a matter of fact, the passes were placed precisely inches out of the reach of two Sparta players, each one close enough to lay his hand on the Shamrock artists. And when Gonsalves hit the ball with high, he almost broke the stitches.

Alec McNab, up against two remarkable players in Halfback Pearson and Fullback Mrnka, played one of the greatest games he has shown St. Louis fans in several seasons. With Gonsalves and Begley, he worked a triangle passing game that baffled the defenders.

Nilsen took a terrific pounding and mauling from Scott, Mrnka and Nudera, but he stood by his guns without a squawk.

Bill Lehman's work at left halfback saved the day when the left wing of the forward line threatened to collapse in the first half. Lehman is playing better soccer now than ever before in his career.

Wolfe and Fidler, the latter a heavy set, aggressive youngster, gave Gonsalves Rodriguez most cause for worry, but there were very real close calls. Vick was busy in midfield, but never dangerous in the penalty area, and Wright had few chances to shoot.

Defending Sparta's Goal No Job for a Nervous Man

WRAITH'S COLUMN

That Dynamic Dempsey.

JACK DEMPSEY is in again — not as a fighter, promoter or referee, this time, but as the backer of a new Miami Beach hotel. Probably, as has happened with almost every other undertaking attempted by this unusual personage, his venture will go over with a bang.

THE KING'S BIGGEST MONEY MAKER.

It has always been that way with Dempsey. When his fighting days were esteemed over, he planned a comeback tour which lasted two seasons. Financially it went over with the aforesaid bang.

His barnstorming days over, Jack went into the refereeing business and he made an estimated sum of $150,000 in two seasons. Imagine the referee getting more than the fighters—which was what happened.

This idea being worked out, Jack went into the restaurant business. That is to say he rented his great name and his good right arm—for handshaking purposes.

Dodgers Swamp Terriers, 100-0

WICHITA, Kans., Dec. 14.—Scoring at the rate of almost two points every minute of play, the Brooklyn Dodgers defeated the St. Louis Terriers, 100 to 0, in an exhibition football game here yesterday afternoon before a crowd estimated at 4000 persons.

The Dodgers gained 300 yards on passes and 274 by rushing while the Terriers gained a total of 115 yards and lost 75.

The Terriers were a pickup team, featuring one Simmons, former Iowa U. star, basketball player and a few members of the St. Louis Terriers.

Minneapolis Five Bowls Into Lead In Middle-West

By The Associated Press.

DES MOINES, Ia., Dec. 14.—Only one leader in the four divisions of the Midwest bowling tournament here was displaced after week-end rolling, but visiting bowlers narrowed the gap separating the leaders in the other departments.

Frank (Red) Farnam, veteran Chicago bowler, took the lead in the all-events with a 1951 total, followed by another Chicagoan, Kegler Marichol, with 1941.

The Arrow Head Steel Products team of Minneapolis took the lead in the team event division last night with a 1202 total, displacing the Budweiser Beer team of St. Louis, which had headed this department since last week with a total of 3019 pins. Crescent Macaroni of Davenport, Ia., was third, with 2906.

A 1532 fired by the Daniels-Sonner combination of Des Moines last week was still good enough to hold the lead in the doubles. F. M. Jarosh and J. Jarosh of Omaha, Neb., held second with 1273, with another Omaha team, Better-Preffer, in third place with one less.

H. Thomas of Peoria held the leading position in the single, rolled last week, with 703 pins. A Rankin of Chicago shot into second place with 693, followed by Fleckenstein of Fairbault, Minn., with 686.

American Soccer League.

Paterson, California, and Philadelphia, Pa., were the only teams to play in the New York American League last night. The Philadelphia team, coached by George S. St. Mary's, defeated the Paterson team, 2-0.

Matthews Boxes Sikes Tomorrow In Return Bout

By The Associated Press.

SEATTLE, Wash., Dec. 14.—The hard-hitting Allen Matthews, St. Louis Negro, wound up his training here today for a second fight with Johnny Sikes, Bismarck (N. D.) middleweight.

Which boy—if either—ever gets a crack at Freddie Steele's middleweight crown depends largely on the result of their meeting tomorrow night.

Matthews won an unpopular decision from Sikes two weeks ago.

LOUIS SEEKS 27TH KAYO VICTORY IN FIGHT WITH SIMMS

BROWN BOMBER IS FAVORED TO STOP OPPONENT IN GO TONIGHT

Detroit Negro, Not Disappointed Over Turn of New York Events—Will Box Rosenbloom.

By W. J. McGoogan.

OF THE POST-DISPATCH SPORTS STAFF. CLEVELAND, Dec. 14.—They're dressing Eddie Simms for his first knockout when he meets Joe Louis tonight in a 10-round main event of the annual boxing show promoted by a Cleveland newspaper for the benefit of a Christmas fund.

That is, almost everyone connected with the scrap, except possibly Eddie himself, figures that the Brown Bomber will score his twenty-seventh professional knockout and for the first time in some five years Eddie will be knocked down for the count of 10.

Simms is a substitute on the card, having taken the place of the ancient Johnny Risko, who had originally been signed for the match after three years in retirement. Then Risko developed some sort of trouble after he began training and Simms was drafted for the job.

Now Eddie is quite a fighter as those St. Louisans who saw him give John Henry Lewis a close match will agree. But those who saw him lose to Otto Thomas may not agree. And that's the kind of a fighter Eddie is. An in-and-out-er.

He's still a young man. His friends contend that he has only his bad moments but those who are not his friends, or who are not interested, think that perhaps Eddie makes a good fight when he is confident that his opponent can't hurt him but when he has a fear of a possible knockout he tries to get out of that unpleasant happening by running and holding.

Whichever system he chooses to employ against Louis, say the wise ones, will be futile. He can't hold his run from Joe for 10 rounds and if he does to slug it out the result, they contend, will be the same. Mr. Simms on the floor with the referee counting 10 over him.

The fact remains, though, that Eddie is still young, not more than 27 years of age. He has never been knocked out in more than 50 fights, and the fact that he has dropped 14 decisions. And he is in perfect health and condition, passed by the Cleveland Boxing Commission physicians only yesterday.

He will be under no physical handicap as he is just about as large as Louis, just about as strong, and will weigh only a few pounds less than Joe. Louis scaled 202½ pounds this afternoon and Simms weighed 195.

Simms has been in virtual training for months, boxing steadily while Louis has not fought since he knocked out George Brescia, an Argentine, in New York, in October.

Bomber Ready for Bout. The Bomber is fit and ready, however, and is confident that he will add Eddie to his list of knockout victims while the best that Eddie has said is that he hopes to hit Louis once and that may be enough.

Simms can punch and he can box, there's no doubt about that, and unless he leaves his fight in the dressing room it is possible that he will extend Louis' reign to see how far Jack Blackburn can see in teaching Louis to avoid the devastating punch with which Max Schmeling laid him low last June.

True, Louis has had three bouts since that memorable night in the Yankee Stadium and has won all three via knockouts. But none of his opponents gave him a real fight and really none can be compared to Louis. Louis flattened the aging Jack Sharkey in three rounds; knocked out Al Eise, young and vigorous second-rater, in five, and crushed George Brescia, who had never before even signed for a 10-round fight, in three rounds.

Those were not real opponents for Louis. Simms is. He rates the chance and is one of the few remaining heavyweights about the country who really does deserve such an opportunity.

Not that we think Simms can defeat Louis. But he has a chance and has the equipment to cope with Joe. He's not a washed-up has-been and never-easer. He is a journeyman boxer who has been through the wars, knows what it is all about, and has had sufficient training and the nous is upon himself.

Simms Will Get $4000. Simms took the fight cheaply enough as he is to be paid only $4000 for his end while Louis, accepting 40 per cent, is expected to get himself more than $15,000.

The show is an annual event and usually no matter who is on the card they pack the Public Auditorium to its capacity of more than 12,000. That's the way it is now and the sponsors believe that the show will net about $50,000 as they declare they have $40,000 in hand in cash and reservations.

In any event it will be Louis' last appearance in a ring for 1936 and also, probably, Simms'. Joe has had five bouts thus far since January 1, winning four of them on knockouts and being flattened himself.

His Future Rests in That Right Hand

Eddie Simms, Cleveland heavyweight, who meets Joe Louis at Cleveland tonight. Manager Jimmy Dunn is telling him that his chance to become famous lies in his ability to land that right on Louis' jaw.

Green Bay's Passing Attack Nets Victory In "Pro" Title Game

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—The Green Bay Packers took a big Christmas present back to Wisconsin today—the National Professional Football League championship.

Waking up after going around in what closely resembled a trance during the first quarter, the passing powerhouse from the Midwest marched into the title yesterday with a 21-6 victory over the Boston Redskins, champions of the East.

It was the first time in the four years of the league's East-West playoffs the Packers had reached the final elimination, although they previously had won three titles in a row. Last season the Detroit Lions knocked over the New York Giants in the playoff.

A crowd of 28,448 paid $33,471 to see the game. That gave each of the Green Bays about $250 for the winners' share and allowed the Redskins about $175 apiece.

The Redskins rolled up most of their yardage and first downs in the first quarter and showed a big, fast running attack and clever pass offensive.

Score on Forward Pass. In spite of that, they were behind when the period ended—4 because pro football's most famous passing battery—Bernard Harber, pitcher, and Don Hutson, catcher, began clicking. After the Packers had recovered a fumble on Boston's 47-yard line, it took this combination just a moment or two to collect with a scoring pass. Ernie Smith added the point after Hutson scored.

Boston came right back, with Pugs Renter ramming the line, running the ends and combining with Don Irwin in flinging forwards, and marched 78 yards with Renter scoring the first play of the second period. Riley Smith missed the point for the first time in 15 attempts.

The Packers really hit their stride in the second half, scoring in the third quarter on a 73-yard forward pass drive and again in the final quarter after Lon Evans blocked a punt to set it up on the two-yard line. Gantenbein and Bob Monnett scored the last-half touchdown.

LAST PLACE STUARTS BEAT LEADERS IN U. CITY SOCCER GAME. Center Forward Tom Casey's two goals enabled the Stuart club to defeat the league leading Zeltmans in the featured game of the University City Municipal Soccer League double-header played yesterday at Heman Park on Olive Street road.

O'Toole scored the league leaders' only goal. In the first game, the Roosevelt's knocked over the Wahoo Indians with one shot, Wisniewski scoring on a penalty kick.

GUALDONI CLUB WINS ITS FIFTH STRAIGHT MUNY LEAGUE MATCH

A new leader developed in the Sherman-Fairground group of the Municipal Soccer League yesterday when the St. Edwards team turned back the Irish Village squad, 2 to 1, in one of the featured games of the day's program. Goals by Kelly and Moran won for St. Edwards.

Fogarty scored the only goal for the unhap. Villagers. The real surprise of the day turned up in the game between the Stags and the Breimeyers. The latter is a club gathered together only three weeks ago for the purpose of filling out the group of six clubs. They opened their bid for the title by beating the Village, 1 to 0, a week ago and they came right back yesterday with a 1-1 draw against the highly-regarded Stags.

At Carondelet Park a serious championship threat is seen in the continued success of the Kaiser-Gualdoni team which numbers among its stars the former professional, Jimmy Moore and Benisch. They scored their fifth straight victory yesterday in outclassing the Jimmy McAteer's South Side Smoke Shop team, 4 to 0. Lou Garcia, former star center forward of the Burke club of the St. Louis Soccer League, who has been out of the game for several months due to an automobile accident, was in the South Side club's forward line but he couldn't swing the tide.

Some 2500 South St. Louis soccer fans turned out to watch the Carondelet games, and chuckled over the goal Bernie Regelsky, burly Gualdoni goalie bowled 'em over, in assisting his team to win over the South Sides. Rough-and-ready Reggie left his goal on no fewer than a dozen occasions to assist Smoke Shop players, who were in position to score.

In the intermediate division the Nebos beat the Kriegshausers 1-0 for their fifth straight victory on a goal by Jose Vasquez in the last 10 minutes of play. A slight fistic skirmish between members of the two teams was stopped before any casualties occurred.

MILLER BREAKS 100 TARGETS IN ROW TO WIN CLASS A SHOOT. KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—Phil Miller, French Lick, Ind., broke 100 targets in a row yesterday to win the Class A high gun event at the tenth annual Decem-ber shoot of the Kansas City Trap-shooting Association.

Chet Williams, Grinnell, Ia., and Ed Hoag, Pleasanton, Kan., tied for the Class B victory with 97 each, while George Nicolai, Atchison, Kan., and J. T. McCormick, Parkville, Mo., broke 94 each to share high honors in Class C.

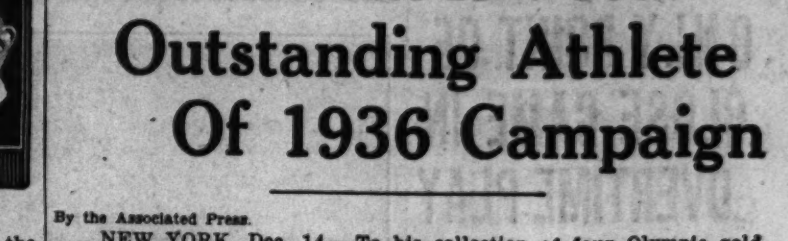

John Delong, Emporia, Kan., won the 100-target handicap event with a 94, while F. D. Saunders, Minneapolis, won the 100-target free event with the 94 score. Saunders' purse amounted to $411.

Miller won the high over-all for 300 targets with a 283.

Jesse Owens Is Voted Outstanding Athlete Of 1936 Campaign

By the Associated Press. NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—To his collection of four Olympic gold medals, as many oak trees, and the profits of his big broad jump from amateur to professional ranks, Jesse Owens today can add the accolade of recognition as the outstanding athlete of 1936.

The sepiu streak from Ohio State, crowned world champion sprinter and broad jumper in the Olympic games at Berlin, ran off with the ballots in the sixth annual poll conducted by the Associated Press to determine this year's leading performer among the men, amateur or pro, in any sport.

Owens is the second Negro in succession to achieve this athletic distinction. Last year Joe Louis, the Brown Bomber of the ring, was voted the outstanding performer of them all.

Fifty-one of the 65 experts contributing to the poll put Owens at the top of the list. With a total of 170 points in the final tabulation, Jesse nearly trebled the count of his nearest rival, Carl Hubbell, southpaw ace of the New York Giants and hero of the year's longest winning streak. Hubbell, voted the outstanding athlete of 1935, posted 61 points.

Football Star Is Third. Third place, by the slim margin of a single point, went to Yale's football captain and All-American, Lawrence Morgan Kelley of Williamsport, Pa. Kelley nosed out Max Schmeling, the German heavyweight who sprang the year's fistic sensation by knocking out Joe Louis. The point totals were 33 and 32, although Schmeling received five ballots for first place, Kelley none.

First place nominations, otherwise, included three for Hubbell, two each for Colorado's Glenn Morris and Georgia's Forrest (Spec) Towns, a pair of Olympic champions; one each for Lou Gehrig, baseball's iron man, and Dutch Clark, former Colorado College All-American quarterback and pro star since then with the Detroit Lions.

By sports, major league baseball led with five nominations for honors. Track and field showed four for winners.

SAM DUEKER SCORES TO GAIN TIE FOR HOLY NAME ELEVEN. Sam Dueker, who is somewhat of a high-class baseball player in the summer months, was the big shot of the Penrose Soccer League games yesterday afternoon, scoring the goal that enabled the Holy Name team to tie the O'J Centers, 1-1. Perpetual Help won the other game of the doubleheader from the St. Engelbert team, 3 to 0. The Siemers brothers each scored a goal for winners.

FLYERS DEFEAT TULSA, 1-0, FOR 13TH VICTORY OF YEAR

BURNS TALLIES ONLY POINT OF CLOSE GAME IN OVERTIME PLAY

Levine Plays Sensational Game in Goal for Visitors—Black Hawks Are Here Wednesday.

Hockey fans, 8100 or more of them, went to the Arena last night feeling quite certain that they would see their favored Flyers pushed to the limit to maintain their remarkable winning streak. The sentiment seemed to be that Tulsa's Oilers have what it takes to stop St. Louis' versatile forwards. And, after a full 60 minutes of play, Tulsa had justified that confidence, for the Flyers were held scoreless through three full periods of 20 minutes each. But after the constant prodding and prodding and poking the St. Louis team finally discovered a tiny crack in the stout armor of their opponents and Bobby Burns rammed home the only goal of the game, one minute and 35 seconds after the start of the first extra period.

That goal gave the Flyers their thirteenth victory in 15 games and put them on edge for their exhibition match Wednesday night at the Arena against the Chicago Black Hawks of the National League. They have a splendid record now to justify hopes that they will be able to battle the major league club on even terms.

The inevitable result of last night's game was forestalled largely by the sensational goal tending of Porky Levine who can be one of the greatest hockey goalkeepers in the world. Levine, a cagey veteran who doesn't fall victim to the wild and guile of clever forwards, is the star of that tight Tulsa defense and it appeared last night that the Flyers would never be able to get the puck into the net. Levine picked him up and he was out of the building.

Stopper Nelson Effective. Stopper Nelson, in the St. Louis goal, was equally effective, but Tulsa's forwards didn't get the glorious close-in scoring chances that a great number as did the Flyers. Nelson was target of a desperate Tulsa drive as the first extra period opened and he succeeded in making two stops before the puck was deflected toward the St. Louis blue line where Left Wing Bobby Burns pounced upon it and dashed away toward the north goal. Tulsa was still well fortified with two defense men in perfect position to stop Burns but Johnny McKinnon shot out of the defense zone to join Burns. The last save was made by the two defenders, bluffed a pass to McKinnon, who was a yard or so to his left, and then tried to split the Tulsa pair. He succeeded in a measure but lost the puck in the mad scramble of sticks and bodies, but McKinnon, coming on fast around Tulsa's left side, retrieved it near the boards and flicked a neat pass to the goalmouth where Burns, never fully checked, came on headlong and drove the disc into the net past the helpless Levine.

The crowd had saved up a mighty roar of joy for the winning goal and almost lifted the roof off the building, and the game was over.

Few Penalties in Match. Aside from the spectacular goal tending at each end there was nothing remarkable about the game unless it was the absence of penalties. Carbol and Muvhill were the only Flyers to see the inside of the penalty box and Belleme was the only Tulsa player chased off the ice for illegal play.

The crowd got a huge laugh at the start of the game when Levine of Tulsa fell flat on his back without anyone coming within yards of him. He sheepishly picked himself up, skated about five yards and then flopped on his pants again, just like a raw beginner. Proving that there really is a trick to this business of remaining upright on those thin skates.

Champion Who May Fight Here

Freddie Steele, middleweight ring champion of the world, who conferred with Promoter Lew Raymond during a short stopover here while en route to Milwaukee where he fights Gorilla Jones, Jan. 1.

self in the other one. Simms hasn't won a fight in 1936 and the best he can point to is a draw with Lorenzo Pack, another Detroit Negro and, like Louis, a product of Golden Gloves tournament.

Louis professes to be not at all upset over the ruling of the New York Boxing Commission which Saturday arranged a title contest between Max Schmeling and Jim Braddock to be held in New York, June 3, 1937.

"I'm still young," he said after he finished his final light workout for Simms yesterday, "and I never did believe they could go through with that Atlantic City thing between Braddock and me. I would just as soon go along as I have this year."

Asked how he thought the Schmeling-Braddock fight would end, he said: "Who can guess anything about such a fight? I don't know. I would rather see Braddock win, then no matter who won between Jim and me the title would remain in the United States."

"I believe I can take either Braddock or Schmeling or both, so I'm not worried about that end of it."

His managers seem thoroughly reconciled to the turn events have taken and Mike Jacobs, New York promoter and their financial adviser, also declares he has no kick coming.

"We got Louis in the picture," he said, "we'll keep him working as long as possible until maybe next September when he'll get his title shot."

FREDDIE STEELE HERE, WON'T SAY IF HE PLANS TO BOX MATTHEWS

The possibility of a return match between Freddie Steele, American middleweight champion, and Allen Matthews, St. Louis challenger, with the title at stake, became almost a reality today with the arrival here of Champion Steele and his trainer, Al Lang. They are en route from Los Angeles to Milwaukee, where Steele will oppose Gorilla Jones.

"We did not come here expressly to discuss this fight, but you can say that there is a reasonable probability that this title event will be held here, if we can reach an agreement on terms," said Lang. "At this time we are concerned with a fight which Steele has with Gorilla Jones at Milwaukee, Jan. 1."

"After that we will be ready to close matches with any and all opponents who seek the title."

Law Raymond, local promoter, said that nothing was definite regarding any match between Matthews and Steele, but that the men would probably fight here early next year either in an overweight match or for the title.

Matthews, two months ago, met Steele at Seattle and gave him what newspapermen and other observers said was the toughest battle Steele had in his entire career. The champion was given the decision on points. It was a non-title affair. Matthews and his manager, George Wiseman, immediately asked for a return bout with the title at stake, and Seattle promoters appeared willing to put it on as soon as the principal could agree on terms.

Steele won a bout in Los Angeles last week and is on his way to Milwaukee for the New Year's day bout.

Steele is planning a busy campaign, he says. This clean-cut young man has plenty of poise and assurance.

"Between now and summer I hope to defend the title at least five or six times. The oftener the better. It's only a question of getting the right guarantee," he told the Post-Dispatch.

"For the Jones fight we have been guaranteed $20,000. I fought him twice, defeating him once and earning a draw the other time."

"I would rather fight for title bouts than overweight contests in any case. It isn't only the money. Overweight fights are just as tough or tougher than title fights because you are competing against a man who is at least 150 and sometimes less. My overweight foes will run around 165 pounds. You can't laugh that off when you're stacked up against men really dangerous, like Allen Matthews for example. There's a real fighter and he'll hit hard."

Steele has about the smallest hands for a boxer of his weight this writer has ever noted. They appear positively frail. He hits knockout punches with both hands and yet his hands have never suffered anything worse than bruises.

CONRAY'S COLUMN

kind of money Dempsey has been able to command in recent years.

Few Fighters Good Business Men.

NOW Dempsey is tackling a field that is highly risky, if we believe accounts of various hotel operators. It is not a new field to Jack for in Los Angeles he owns or did own another hotel which he has operated since the days when Jack Kearns was his manager and partner.

The dynamic qualities of this former prize fighter are almost amazing when compared to posturing career activities of former heavyweight champions. Even the No. 1 intelligent boy of all the heavies, Gene Tunney, has apparently been content to sit back and clip coupons, while the man he twice defeated has stepped on the gas and utilized that great motor to gain other advantages.

Yes, Willard, outside of the ring, was unable to carry on with success and lost all his money practically. Jack Johnson, Bob of course, is flat. Jim Jeffries and Fitzsimmons were hardly able to get off first base as business men.

Jim Corbett capitalized himself pretty well in the theatrical business.

But on the whole most fighters simply give up when they quit the ring and drift with the tide. The hookworm seems to get them. If a hookworm ever bit Dempsey, the chances are it would die.

If the hotel business caves in, Jack will come out on top in something else. He has that business IT.

His New York and Florida interests are going to cause Jack a new line of activity. In order to operate both his projects he will commute by airplane between Miami and Manhattan, making his home, however, in Florida during the season.

Job for Joe Murphy.

JOE MURPHY, veteran St. Louis turfman, one of the oldest of the active officials in the racing game today, is to be general manager at Hawthorne, next year.

The "Jedge" will be returning to his old love, since it was Murphy who first brought back Hawthorne and rehabilitated it 10 or more years ago.

Murphy has conducted racing or officiated in almost every important center in the country. Even during the days when the law was beating down on betting, Murphy refused to be stopped. At Hawthorne, Tanforan, New Orleans and even at Maxwellton in St. Louis, Murphy conducted meetings in the face of laws that prohibited betting.

His only complete failure was here in St. Louis where the bootleg betting system was fed to go over. Murphy fought for years to legalize racing in this State. He almost succeeded once, but a

BLATTNER WINS THREE TITLES IN STATE TOURNEY

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 14.—Bud Blattner of St. Louis, third national ranking player, captured three titles to the finals of the Missouri State tennis tournament here last night.

Blattner took the men's singles crown by defeating George Hendry, St. Louis, 21-18, 21-16. He teamed with Hendry to defeat Ed Woody and Garrett Nash, St. Louis, in the men's doubles, 21-8, 21-12, 21-19. He shared the mixed doubles title with Dolores Probert, also St. Louis, by defeating Dorothy Joseph and Harry Benson, Kansas City, 21-16, 21-17.

Dolores Probert won the women's singles title, defeating Dorothy Joseph, 21-8, 21-10, 21-17.

HERMANN'S ROLL 2883 TO LEAD QUINTETS IN CLASSIC PIN CIRCUIT

Members of the Classic Bowling League found "tough going" in their weekly round on the Gravois Recreation alleys, yesterday, when a 2883 total for the Hermanns was the high figure of the session. The total enabled the Hermanns to win two out of three from the Say It With Flowers with 2852. The Budweisers, 2837, won the odd game from the Silver Seals, 2836, while the Wilkes, 2704, took two out of three from the Club Plantation.

Oscar Whitehead's 637 was the best individual count of the round. In a doubles match, Ambrose Natch and Chris Sotrell defeated Windy Glaub and Otto Stein Jr., 1502 to 1173. Stein with 644 was the high individual. Another doubles match will be decided Jan. 2 at the Baden Recreation when Bud Rice and Bill Link oppose Buzz Wilson and Bob Willis.

COCHRAN WINS BILLIARD TITLE IN DEFEATING MATSUYAMA

CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—Walker Cochran of San Francisco held his third world's three cushion billiards championship today—and a lion's share of the starring honors of the 1936 angle tournament.

The West Coast expert clinched the title in the early morning hours yesterday by defeating Kinry Matsuyama of Japan, 80 to 37 in 53 innings. Starting Friday afternoon, Cochran put on one of the most spectacular finishes ever seen in the sport. He defeated Johnny Layton of Sedalia, Mo., seven times, and then turned the tournament into a three-way tie for first place.

In the first playoff game Cochran downed Tiff Denton of Kansas City 50 to 33, in 49 innings. Taking the floor against Matsuyama, a half hour later Cochran repeatedly made difficult shots to build up a lead. When the Japanese star threatened Cochran ran six and shortly afterward ran out with a brilliant cluster of five points.

Matsuyama finished second with seven wins and four defeats. Denton placed third with six wins and five losses. Willie Kopp, defending champion, Jay Bozeman of Detroit and Layton tied for fourth, fifth and sixth places with five wins and four losses.

Cochran first won the three cushion crown in 1933. He won again in 1935 and promptly lost it to Hoppe in a challenge match.

GEORGIA TECH LEADER OUT OF BATTLE WITH CALIFORNIA ELEVEN

ATLANTA, Dec. 14.—Georgia Tech's hopes of stopping California's Bears in a football collision here Dec. 26 received a blow today in news that Capt. Milt Simmons is in a hospital with a dangerous leg infection.

The husky senior guard was taken to a hospital yesterday when he developed fever from an infection which started in a slight scratch received in practice last week.

Doctors said it almost was certain he would be unable to play against California and added there was some doubt that he would be out of the hospital in time to see the game.

SOUTHERN RULE ONE-ELIGIBILITY UNFAIR, COACH OF SCHOOL SAY

By the Associated Press.

RICHMOND, Va., Dec. 14.—Smackdown from the Southern Conference yesterday revealed the compromise made for the "Graham plan," a substitution of the 15-member athletic group were apparent from settled.

Dr. Bennett E. Gear, president of Furman University, expressed an attitude of those opposed to the rule book would return to their campuses "knowing they had been deceived." We have been passing legislation that is going to force hands to tell a lie.

He referred particularly to the action of the new code provided that all eligibility committees must be composed of representatives of the schools. "We have been passing legislation that is going to force hands to tell a lie."

Dr. Frank P. Graham, president of the University of North Carolina, and sponsor of the plan, said the substitution which was being replaced by a modified version, warned the conference members, however, that the failure to provide a barrier against schools receiving aid from alumni groups will be recognized as a "cause for concern" in college athletics. He said he would be best served by "uniform" actions against evils we know.

Expressions of opinion on the side of the question left little doubt that the matter will be recognized as a "cause for concern" in college athletics. He said he would be best served by "uniform" actions against evils we know.

ANSAS STUDENTS ARE IN FAVOR OF CHANGE ON ATHLETIC STAFF

By the Associated Press.

LAWRENCE, Kan., Dec. 14.—The University of Kansas athletic board, meeting today primarily to discuss the financial situation of the athletic department, will be fully informed of a student movement toward the athletic staff, based in a questionnaire supported by the university student body.

John R. Malone, publisher of the law, said the findings would be presented to Chancellor E. H. L. tomorrow morning.

The questionnaire responded 437 students in favor of change in supervision and direction of athletics compared with 107 in the present supervision. The question, "Do you think a new football coach?" students answered "yes" and "no."

The suggestion that Kansas was new from the Big Six Conference was opposed 874 to 153.

It was indicated that three members of the board of regents named Harris, Drew, McLaughlin and Ralph T. O'Neill, would be the problem of student union.

The athletic board is made up of faculty members, four alumni representatives and two members of the student body.

DRUGGIST ENDS HIS LIFE IN STORE AT ST. CHARLES

Harry B. Kienker Was Member of School Board, Former City Councilor.

The body of Harry B. Kienker, 48 years old, was found this morning in the basement of his drug store, 901 North Second street, St. Charles. There was a bullet wound in his head and a .38 caliber revolver containing a discharged shell lay beside the body.

Friends said he had had financial difficulties. He was a member of the St. Charles School Board and had told the board president last night that he would attend a meeting this morning. From 1932 to 1934 he was City Counselor of St. Charles.

He had been dead about six hours when found by a clerk, Adolph Langstadt. He operated another drug store at 301 South Main street and had formerly owned a store in South St. Louis. Surviving are his wife and a son, Theodore Kienker.

LONGSHOREMEN UNDERMINING STRIKE, SAYS SEAMEN'S HEAD

He Accuses Them of "Playing Ball" with Ship Owners by Working on Dollar Line Boats.

NEWARK, N. J., Dec. 14.—Harry R. Bridges, West Coast district president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said today he had little hope of a settlement soon in the maritime strike.

Arriving at Newark airport from California, he said West Coast ship owners aimed to prolong the strike there and break it in the East in an effort to destroy his union. He came East to gain support for the strike in this section, to confer with leaders and give several speeches, he said.

Bridges said Joseph P. Ryan, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, was "playing ball" with the ship owners and said the "entire West Coast is in that opinion." He asserted that Ryan's men were working on Dollar Line boats.

Fire or Acid Burns Cover Most of Victim Discovered Near Wildwood, N. J.

By the Associated Press.

WILDWOOD, N. J., Dec. 14.—Two youths found the body of an unidentified woman yesterday stuffed in two potato sacks in a wood at Dias Creek near here. The body evidently had been placed there during the day, because the sacks were dry, and a four-day rain had ended only yesterday morning.

The woman had brown hair and was about 35 years old.

An autopsy will be conducted today to find whether burns, which covered most of the body, were caused by fire or acid, and if they caused death.

The potato sacks were stamped "Prince Edward Potato Bag Co., Canada." The only other clue was the woman's wedding ring. There were no reports of a missing woman in this section.

ESCAPED COUNTY PRISONER HELD AS COUNTERFEITER

Negro Who Got Away in 1933 Admits Passing 100 Worthless Quarters.

John McKnight, a Negro, sought since he escaped from jail at Clayton in 1933, was held for Federal authorities today, after he admitted, police said, having passed about 100 counterfeit quarters in the last three weeks. He was arrested Saturday night after paying for a small purchase with a counterfeit 25-cent piece.

In his room in the 2300 block of Washington avenue, police found counterfeiting equipment, nine counterfeit quarters and two counterfeit 50-cent pieces.

McKnight was arrested as he boarded a street car at Jefferson and Park avenues when Lawrence Vogel, proprietor of a restaurant at 1626 South Jefferson, pointed him out to a policeman as the man who had just given him a counterfeit quarter in payment of a 5-cent purchase. Police found another counterfeit quarter inside his right shoe and $3.15 in small change in his pockets.

McKnight escaped from jail, police said, while serving six months for grand larceny. He was sentenced to three years in Federal penitentiary at El Reno, Ok., in 1934, for violation of the Dyer Act, according to police, then transferred to a prison camp in Tucson, Ariz., and discharged last Aug. 9. He was identified yesterday by several merchants as the man who had paid for purchases with counterfeit quarters.

TRIAL OF SUIT FOR $1,840,000 SALE COMMISSION OPENED

David E. Kahn Says He Found Buyer of Paris Medicine Co. But Defendant Ran Out.

Trial of a suit to collect a $1,840,000 commission in an alleged deal to sell the Paris Medicine Co. began this afternoon before a jury in Federal Judge Charles B. Davis' court.

David E. Kahn, of New York, filed the action in March, 1934, against Edwin W. Grove Jr., and the St. Louis Union Trust Co., trustees of the large estate of the late Edwin W. Grove Sr. Kahn stated that he was engaged by defendants to find a purchaser and executed his part of the contract by arranging a sale to the Zonite Products Company for $2,000,000. According to Kahn's petition, a sales agreement was drawn, but the trustees failed to go through with the deal.

The Paris Medicine Co., 2630 Pine street, was the chief asset in the estate of Edwin W. Grove Sr., who died in 1927. Edwin W. Grove Jr. has died since Kahn filed his suit, and J. H. Grover, his successor, is now a defendant with the trust company. Kahn is represented in the suit by Lucille P. Kahn, who states she is the assignee of his rights. Counsel for the plaintiff includes former Senator James A. Reed, of Kansas City. Six veniremen were challenged for cause during the selection of the jury, because they had been parties to profitable transactions with the St. Louis Union Trust Co.

FALSTAFF CORPORATION BUYS BREWERY AT NEW ORLEANS

Acquires Outstanding Stock of National Plant and Will Begin Operations Jan. 1.

The National Brewery of New Orleans has been purchased by the Falstaff Brewing Corporation through acquisition of the outstanding common and preferred stock. The purchase price was not announced.

The Falstaff company will take over operation of the New Orleans plant Jan. 1, and it is expected that the first beer will be ready for sale about May 1. The purchase was made to provide needed distribution outlets in the South, it was stated.

The New Orleans brewery has a capacity of about 150,000 barrels a year. Plans are being made for additions to the storage and bottling facilities of the new plant. The Falstaff company now operates two plants in St. Louis and one in Omaha, Neb. Negotiations were handled by Joseph Griesedieck, president; Frederick R. Bauer, member of the Executive Committee, and Alvin Griesedieck and Harvey Beffa, vice-presidents.

NLRB ORDERS PLANT ELECTION IN STRIKE AT PORTLAND, ORE.

Finds Walkout Was in Protest Against Company's Refusal to Bargain With Union.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14. — The National Labor Relations Board announced yesterday it had ordered an election to be held among employees of the Oregon Textile Co., Portland, Ore., to ascertain whether they desire the United Textile Workers of America, to represent them in collective bargaining.

The company's plant, only one of its kind west of the Mississippi River, has been closed since employees of the production, maintenance and shipping departments went on strike Nov. 5.

The union, contending it represented 218 of the plant's 400 employees, took the case to the board, which found the company "has consistently refused to bargain with the union as the representative of the employees." The strike was called in protest against the company's attitude, the board said.

WABASH IN RECEIVERSHIP BUT WILL PAY BOND INTEREST

Court Authorizes Meeting $156,570 Obligation on Four Issues; Not Necessary to Borrow.

Payment of $156,570 semi-annual interest due Jan. 1 on four underlying bond issues of the Wabash Railway Co., now in receivership, was authorized today by United States District Judge Charles B. Davis.

The receivers, Frank C. Nicodemus and Norman D. Pitcairn, in their application, informed the court the payments could be made without resort to borrowing. The interest has been paid regularly on these issues since the company went into receivership in 1932.

The bond issues and interest amounts are: Wabash Railway Co., first mortgage 5 per cent Detroit & Chicago extension bonds, $47,600; Wabash Railway Co., first mortgage 4 per cent Des Moines Division bonds, $32,000; Wabash Railway Co., first lien Terminal 4 per cent gold bonds, $71,000; Wabash Railway Co., 5 per cent debenture bonds, series B, $5970.

WHEELER ASS VAN SWERING TERMINAL

Senator Asserts Dodged Requirement of Missouri Service Commission

'WANTED TO BE SAFE,' WITNESSES

W. C. Potter of Trust Cites New Defense of Corporation Set

By MARQUIS W. A Staff Correspondent Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The late Van Sweringen, Cleveland financiers to the Missouri Service Commission to purchase terminal properties and cities in North Kansas, Joseph was brought before the Senate committee on the Missouri Pacific railroad finance bill today.

John F. Murphy, Van Sweringen's attorney, said he did not know whether the late Van Sweringen had agreed with this view.

Chairman Wheeler said that before a railroad may acquire control over road properties, permission must be obtained from the Missouri Pacific terminal properties through an elaborate system of companies, headed by the Van Sweringen Terminal Properties Corporation.

Whether L. W. Baldwin of the Missouri Pacific proved the terms of the deal raised by Wheeler.

"As a matter of fact," said, "the Van Sweringen have kicked Baldwin at any time they saw rest of the directors with him. Is that not so?"

Murphy would not say whether Baldwin in charge had directed the Van Sweringen road.

Charges Dodged

"The contract that between the packers, Swifts, and Terminal for those properties was the paper it was written," said, "and the organized Terminal Trust around that Missouri that not right?"

"I wanted to play safe," replied.

Wheeler read from meeting of Missouri, seeking to show Sweringen had a mind of nine when it came to whether Missouri buy the Terminal Properties Shares Inc. company.

O. P. Van Sweringen, the board of Missouri, turned the chair over because of his interest as a director of the company was to sell the Terminal.

But this, Wheeler said, was merely a gesture, and other Van Sweringen ready to carry out the as desired by the two.

"What we have brought," Wheeler said, "is the fact that it is almost a legislative body to cure the evils that people think they are might just as well gress and stop trying."

"I agree wholeheartedly," said, "with your condemnation of the Missouri Pacific."

"Why do you say of Missouri do not Senator White of Missouri member, asked of cause the transfer of side the State," Murphy said.

"That seems to be a significant reason to me," replied.

Murphy had said thought the Federal had pre-empted jurisdiction transfers through the Exchange law.

Dummy Company

Wheeler brought out of a dummy company, Trust, Inc., which was the Terminal. But this was never brought out, in the final Shares, Inc. company that held the Murphy said this was "safety" in the transaction.

W. C. Potter of Guaranty Trust Cites New Deal in Defense of Alleghany Corporation Setup.

A Staff Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Failure of the late Van Sweringen brothers, Cleveland financiers to obtain permission of the Missouri Public Service Commission to purchase of terminal properties and railway facilities in North Kansas City and St. Joseph was brought out today before the Senate committee investigating railroad finance.

John P. Murphy, Van Sweringen attorney, said he did not think that permission was necessary although he added that other lawyers employed by the Van Sweringens disagreed with this view.

Chairman Wheeler read into the record the Missouri statute stating that before a railroad corporation may acquire control over other railroad properties permission of the commission must be obtained.

The Van Sweringens set up the terminal properties purchase through an elaborate series of holding companies, headed in the Alleghany Corporation. The question of whether L. W. Baldwin, acting head of the Missouri Pacific, had approved the terms of the deal was raised by Wheeler.

"As a matter of fact," Wheeler said, "the Van Sweringens could have kicked Baldwin out of there at any time they saw fit and all the rest of the directors and officers with him. Is that not so?"

Murphy would not agree to this, insisting that Baldwin and others in charge had direction long before the Van Sweringens took over the road.

Charges Dodging Law.
"The contract that was written between the packers, Armours and Swifts, and Terminal Shares Inc., for those properties was not worth the paper it was written on," Wheeler said, "and the reason you organized Terminal Trust was to get around that Missouri statute. Is that not right?"

"Of course we wanted to play safe," Murphy replied. Wheeler read from notes of a meeting of Missouri Pacific directors, seeking to show that the Van Sweringens had a majority of five out of nine when it came to a vote on whether Missouri Pacific should buy the Terminal properties from Terminal Shares Inc., a Van Sweringen company.

O. P. Van Sweringen, chairman of the board of Missouri Pacific, turned the chair over to Baldwin because of his interest in the deal as to sell the Terminal properties. But this, Wheeler suggested, was merely a gesture, leaving Baldwin and other Van Sweringen directors ready to carry out the transaction as desired by the two brothers.

"What we have brought out here," Wheeler said, "is the best evidence that it is almost useless for any legislative body to pass laws to cure the evils that the American people think they are subject to. We might just as well abandon Congress and stop trying to pass laws. I agree wholeheartedly with Judge Faris' condemnation of this deal."

"Why do you say that the laws of Missouri do not apply here?" Senator White of Maine, Republican member, asked of Murphy: "Because the transfer took place outside the State," Murphy replied.

"That seems to be a pretty insignificant reason to me," White remarked.

Murphy had said earlier that he thought the Federal Government had pre-empted jurisdiction over all stock transfers through the Securities and Exchange Commission law.

Dummy Company Created.
Wheeler brought out the creation of a dummy company, Terminal Trust, Inc., which acquired ownership of the Terminal properties. But this was never shown, Wheeler brought out, on the books of Terminal Shares, Inc., supposedly the company that held these properties. Murphy said this was done to insure "safety" in the transaction.

Cites New Deal.
Defending the setup of the Van Sweringens Alleghany Corporation, holding company for half a dozen railroads, William C. Potter, head of the Guaranty Trust Co. of New York, pointed out that Government corporations formed under the New Deal follow the same form.

Five Nations Including Italy Again Default on War Debt French Reply, on Way, Expected to Be the Same but May Propose Negotiations for a New Settlement.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Five nations—Italy, Poland, Lithuania, Latvia, and Hungary—defaulted anew today on their Dec. 16 war debt payments to the United States.

Each in formal notes presented by their diplomatic representatives to the State Department, expressed regret at their government's inability to meet the regular semi-annual installments.

Great Britain previously had given notice of its intention not to make its payment.

Amounts due tomorrow from each, plus installments previously due and unpaid, follow: Italy, $2,141,593 and $36,494,977; Poland, $5,559,039 and $36,575,028; Latvia, $187,383 and $1,096,878; Lithuania, $121,468 and $942,761; Hungary $51,230 and $327,791.

Finland is the only government which has notified this government of its intention to pay. It owes $231,315.

In language virtually the same as used in former default notes, the Italian communication, handed to the State Department by Ambassador Fulvio Suvich, said:

"My Government regrets to be still unable, at the present moment, to submit any proposals."

PARIS, Dec. 14.—The French Government replied today to the United States' call for payment of the semi-annual war debt installment due Dec. 15.

The text of the note was kept secret, but Foreign Office sources said it was formulated under practically the same conditions as the default notice last June 15. All indications were that it would be another formal expression of regret that France was not in position to make a payment. The amount of the semi-annual payment on France's debt is $23,308,312.

Interest centered, however, on whether the note would contain that sources close to the Foreign Office referred to as a "phrase for the future" expressing hope that some payment would be possible later after negotiations to scale down the total amount.

Agitation has been growing in some sections of the Government for payment of the debt and it has been reported from time to time that the answer sent today might suggest conferences on the problem.

The note was cabled to Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye in Washington, who, it was said, would present promptly to the State Department.

RUSSELL B. HARRISON, SON OF FORMER PRESIDENT, DIES

An Attorney, He Was Mexican Consul at Indianapolis and Had Served in Legislature.

By the Associated Press.
INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., Dec. 14.—Russell B. Harrison, 82 years old, son of former President Benjamin Harrison, was found dead in his apartment yesterday. The body was found by a maid after he had failed to appear during the forenoon. The coroner said he apparently died during the night.

Mr. Harrison had been a practicing attorney here and was Mexican Consul in Indianapolis. He was the great grandson of President William Henry Harrison and the great-grandson of Benjamin Harrison, who was one of the signers of the Declaration of Independence. Born at Oxford, O., he studied at Pennsylvania Military Academy at Chester, Pa., and at Lafayette College, Easton, Pa. After his graduation from college, he was superintendent of the United States Assay Office at Helena, Mont., and also owned the Helena Daily Journal. During the Spanish-American War, in which he was a Lieutenant-Colonel, Mr. Harrison served on the staff of Gen. Leonard Wood. He was a member of the Indiana House of Representatives from 1921 to 1923, and in 1924 was elected to the State Senate for one term.

VERMONT GOVERNOR UPHOLD IN DEMURRER TO CHARGES

Court Rules Statute of Limitations Outlaws Counts; State to File Exemptions.

By the Associated Press.
RUTLAND, Vt., Dec. 14.—Municipal Court Judge Milford K. Smith sustained today a demurrer by the defense that charges that Gov. C. M. Smith had concealed thefts of a former bank bookkeeper were outlawed by the statute of limitations. The court, however, withheld judgment until tomorrow to allow the State to file exemptions.

The warrant, as prepared, charges the concealed thefts from the Marble Savings Bank by John J. Cocklin, recently sentenced to prison. The Governor is president of the bank.

The defense demurrer argued the thefts occurred in 1932. In the warrant are three counts, one dated in 1932 and two in 1935.

Judge Smith ruled the statute of limitations—three years in Vermont on misdemeanors—outlaws the 1932 count and that the others should be outlawed since they followed on from the original count.

DRAFTER OF CONSTITUTION REPORTED KILLED IN RUSSIA

Woman Member of All-Union Congress Said to Have Been Murdered at Melekes.

MOSCOW, Dec. 15.—Secret service investigators were sent last night to Melekes, a small town on the Volga River, to investigate the alleged murder of a woman delegate to the recent all-union congress of Soviets, M. V. Frontina, 50-year-old school teacher, who served on the editorial commission which drafted the final form of the new Russian constitution.

She was reported murdered by three men as she left the train at Melekes Friday on her return from Moscow.

Hoover Fishing in Florida.

PALM BEACH, Fla., Dec. 14.—Former President Hoover arrived here yesterday for a few days' fishing. He went out with his secretary, Lawrence Richey, and Mark Sullivan, political writer, but had little luck the first day.

U. S. OBTAINS MORE NEUTRALITY PACT SPONSORS

Purpose Is to Get Indorsement From all Nations Represented at Buenos Aires Conference.

By the Associated Press.
BUENOS AIRES, Dec. 14.—The United States today moved to obtain unanimous sponsorship for its American neutrality project at the Inter-American Peace Conference.

Conference sessions tackled neutrality and economic subjects after disposing last week of the three major proposals for peace which were passed unanimously through committee.

The neutrality project submitted by the United States, calling for consultation in the event of war anywhere in the world, is believed likely to obtain committee approval today or tomorrow under the joint sponsorship of Cuba, Argentina, Brazil and Central American nations.

By noon at least 11 nations had signed it as joint sponsors. These countries are Argentina, Brazil, Chile, Costa Rica, Cuba, Guatemala, Honduras, Nicaragua, Panama, Salvador and the United States.

Salvador made reservations in signing the plan, hoping for inclusion of some features of the Central American proposal for a pact to provide for joint American action in case of outside aggression.

The major proposals already passed by the committee were called before a full plenary session of the conference for tomorrow. The proposals, which are expected to be approved, are:

1. A convention providing for inter-American consultation to shape joint action if war within or outside the American continents threatens peace and security of the contracting nations.

2. A resolution repeating the non-intervention principle with a provision for joint consultation if emergency arises.

3. A resolution urging all American republics to complete ratification of inter-American peace pacts. Lower Tariffs Sought.

Roosevelt Bodyguard Who Died Honored at Buenos Aires

PRESIDENTIAL ELECTORS MEET IN STATE CAPITALS

Going Through Formal Procedure
That Marks Re-election of Roosevelt.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Members of the Electoral College met in the 48 state capitals today formally to re-elect President Roosevelt and Vice-President Garner.

Officials believe two complications which had threatened to delay completion of the ceremony had been cleared up.

Gov. Louis J. Brann said Maine would disregard a State law fixing the electors' meeting for the first Wednesday in January, in order to comply with the Federal lame duck amendment which advanced the Electoral College balloting to Dec. 14.

Although court contests in three Rhode Island towns had tied up the credentials of their electors, officials expected the State Board of Vote Tabulation to meet in time to certify the electors for the voting.

WHITE HOUSE FUNERAL FOR AUGUST GENNERICH

Private Services to Be Held in East Room Wednesday; Burial in New York.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The White House arranged today a private funeral service for August (Gus) Gennerich, close friend and bodyguard of President Roosevelt, who died at Buenos Aires during the chief executive's recent visit there.

The body will be brought to Washington tomorrow night on the President's train from Charleston, S. C.

Funeral services will be held at 9:30 a. m. Wednesday in the east room of the White House. With the President and Mrs. Roosevelt attending, the Rev. Dr. G. E. Lusk, pastor of Grace Lutheran Church in Washington will conduct them.

Members of the Cabinet, Government officials and some members of Congress have been invited to the ceremony.

The body will be sent to New York afterward for a public funeral and burial at Middle Village, Long Island.

CATHOLIC CHURCH DEVELOPING VAST ANTI-RED CAMPAIGN

Vatican Discloses Special Activity of Bishops, Priests and Laymen's Organization.

VATICAN CITY, Dec. 14.—Vatican authorities disclosed today the Catholic Church was developing a vast anti-Communist activity throughout the world through bishops, priests and the laymen's organization, Catholic Action.

The Pope attacked the spread of Communism early in the Spanish civil war in an address to refugees of the church from Spain. An official said the Pope himself was the director of the world-wide Catholic fight against Communism and that a plan for a special organization to fight Communism had been drafted.

This organization, it has been suggested, would be based on the Pro Deo Committees, composed of both Catholics and protestants, which exist in many European countries.

A. P. LOSES APPEAL IN RADIO TEST CASE

Supreme Court Holds Non-Profit Association Did Not Prove Loss.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Supreme Court today ordered dismissal of litigation in which the Associated Press sought an injunction to restrain radio station KVOS of Bellingham, Wash., from broadcasting the press association's news.

In a unanimous decision delivered by Justice Roberts, the court held that the bill of complaint should have been dismissed by the United States District Court for Western Washington on the ground that the amount in controversy did not give the Federal Court jurisdiction.

The District Court had dismissed the complaint, but was reversed by the Ninth United States Circuit Court, which granted an injunction against broadcasting of news until 18 hours after publication.

"The decree of the Circuit Court of Appeals is reversed," the court ordered, "and the cause is remanded to the District Court, with directions to dismiss the bill of complaint for want of jurisdiction."

The Associated Press, which filed the original action, had contended the station was "pirating" news dispatches from the Bellingham Herald, the Seattle Post-Intelligencer and the Seattle Times, all members of the co-operative Press Association.

John W. Davis, New York attorney for the Associated Press, contended that the news was the property of the press association as long as it had commercial value. This was disputed by William H. Pemberton of Olympia, Wash., attorney for the radio station. He contended his client had a right to broadcast the news as soon as it was published in a newspaper.

The Supreme Court said the case should have been dismissed because the Associated Press had failed to support its contention that the amount in controversy involved more than $3000 and was therefore within the jurisdiction of the Federal Court.

Replying to the Associated Press' contention that the jurisdictional issue had been settled in its case against the International News Service many years ago, the court ruled that no question of jurisdiction had been raised in that case.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Crown and Parliament.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THERE is in the British crown a formal expression of imperial unity and allegiance to the crown is a common tie among all British subjects, in whatever part of the Empire they dwell. The value of this tie is immeasurably increased by the fact that the crown is not an abstraction, but is manifested in the personality of the sovereign.

It is almost impossible to exaggerate the importance of the personal element as a factor of cohesion within the Empire. For instance, the difficulty of preserving unity would be enormously increased if the United Kingdom were under a republican constitution.

As an outcome of the long struggle between King and Parliament, it is an essential doctrine of the Constitution that the King can do no wrong. It is equally a fundamental principle that all official action of the crown, with a very limited exception, must be based on the advice of some Minister or official who is responsible in law for the legality of the action taken. Moreover, constitutional usage has established the principle that the executive must be subject to the control of the people, through their duly elected representatives.

Thus there exists a legal justification for the actions of the British Prime Minister.

LE BARON MONSELEY.

An Epochal Event.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE adoption of a new democratic Constitution by the peoples of Soviet Russia is an epochal event in history.

That these people were forced to detour along the road to democracy by taking a Communist path is something which is now in the lap of the gods.

They have joined the democratic republics of the world and as such merit and should receive all the courtesies due to a good neighbor.

Experience With Languages.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

ONE of your correspondents says that the dead languages should be buried. I am fond of languages, but I must say it would have been better for me if I had spent on English the time I have spent studying dead languages.

I left Germany in 1877; I attended high schools there and later here. The professors always emphasized Latin, Greek and also French. But one can't make much use of them here, not even of German any more, as most Germans speak and read English.

S. E. GARNER.

Hodgepodge—English.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

EDWARD A. BRUEMMER, in a letter held by Albert E. Wiggam and Will Durant that dead languages should be buried. Well, why shouldn't we bury them? Haven't we already done a job of language-burying when we did away with the ancient Anglo-Saxon and to take its place got a hodgepodge of words taken from a multitude of other languages and called "English"?

And what a mess we made of the spelling of it! And how the alphabet was mangled and distorted, as a consequence of which one can scarcely ever depend upon written or printed words to give us a clue to their proper pronunciation; a fault which chases us to the dictionary whenever we have orthopedic doubts. We should really bury this alphabet and in its place have one which enable us to spell words according to standardized pronunciations.

Not only have we a nitwit alphabet, but we mangle the pronunciation of many of the words we have appropriated from various languages, so their original owners can hardly recognize them, as for instance: menu, bureau, palm, coupe, robe, blind, theater, piano, music.

N. J. WERNER.

PAN-AMERICAN TREATIES.

Although the Buenos Aires conference has been at work for less than two weeks, an agreement for peace and security already has been framed, and has won the approval of the delegations of all the 21 nations represented. The plan is described by Secretary Hull as "the strongest guarantee for peace this continent ever had." It provides safeguards against threats to peace from any source, through inter-American wars or from wars abroad, he says.

This is an encouraging start, but it is still too early for cheers, even though formal approval by the whole conference is taken for granted. The difficulty about Pan-American relations has not been inability to draft good treaties, but inability to get ratification of all the nations concerned. This handicap can best be understood by a quick survey of the peace machinery created in past years. The current treaties are as follows:

The Gondre Treaty, approved at the Pan-American Conference of 1923, at Santiago, Chile. This provides for submission of all disputes to commissions of inquiry for investigation and report. The nations pledged that they would not go to war until after the commission had reported.

The Convention of Inter-American Conciliation, signed at Washington in 1929. This strengthened the Gondre accord by empowering the commissions of inquiry to undertake conciliation as well as investigation of disputes.

The Treaty of Inter-American Arbitration, also signed at the 1929 conference. This is appraised by Foreign Policy Reports as a pact that "embodied advanced principles of compulsory arbitration for the settlement of legal disputes." It provided that the tribunal, after certain steps, could settle the dispute "definitively and without appeal."

The Argentine Anti-War Pact of 1933, called the Saavedra Lamas Treaty, of its originator, the present Foreign Minister of Argentina, recent recipient of the Nobel Peace Prize. This condemned wars of aggression and pledged non-recognition of territorial changes not made by pacific means. It provided for a type of consultation and the possibility of mild sanctions.

Thus the American nations have a broad set of rules, going far toward prevention of war if placed in effect. That is the drawback—they have never been placed in full effect, for none of these treaties has been ratified by all the nations. Up to Oct. 1 of this year, only 10 of the 21 nations, including the United States, had ratified all the treaties.

The difficulty created by this situation was shown in the efforts to end the devastating Chaco war, between Bolivia and Paraguay. None of the treaties could be invoked in those peace efforts, for no one accord had been ratified by both contending nations. Since that costly lesson was learned, the United States has proposed a treaty outlawing undeclared wars, but the draft of this pact has not been approved by all the American nations. Other proposals, providing for sanctions, consultation and neutrality, have been made, but also are still unapproved.

The prime requisite for the new proposal, then, is to gain speedy and unanimous ratification. The task of the delegations at Buenos Aires is to frame an effective pact, and to keep out all possible factors that may delay any nation's approval. It is a time of world-wide crisis, and the hope of keeping the Americas at peace is centered on the present conference. Each nation's statesmen and legislative bodies, in considering the new treaty, should be prepared to make concessions for the sake of international accord.

Faith in the value of paper pacts as a means of preventing war has been severely shaken as a result of recent world developments. At the same time, however, they represent the law of nations, and the time has not yet come to abandon the method. The great outpouring of friendly and co-operative expressions at the Buenos Aires conference gives assurance that any treaty framed there will have the sincere support of the contracting nations. The difficulties in the way of ratification and enforcement should be faced squarely, however, both by the negotiators and the peoples at home.

THOMAS MANN EXILED.

A year and a half ago, Harvard University granted an honorary degree to Thomas Mann, German winner of the Nobel Prize for literature in 1929. It was suggested in some quarters at the time that the award was not the rebuke to the Nazi dictatorship which Harvard should have delivered, for the reason that Mann, although living in voluntary exile near Zurich, Switzerland, was not opposed to the policies of Hitler. Any question on that score has now been removed. The Nazi Government has voided the distinguished writer's citizenship and ordered the confiscation of his property. Thomas Mann is now in the same outlawed category as Albert Einstein and Carl von Ossietzky, two other German winners of Nobel awards. If Nobel prizes can be taken as a criterion, the most distinguished Germans today live outside their once beloved fatherland. What price Hitlerism!

"Who," it is asked, "was responsible for the British crisis?" We're convinced that Bernard Shaw and Noel Coward wrote the whole thing.

WHAT HAPPENED ON NOV. 10?

On the evening of Nov. 10, the Board of Education met at dinner and later held a formal meeting. A subject before the members was whether or not they should accord a hearing to a group of Negroes who desired to protest against the board's action in selecting the Vashon High School campus as the site for a new Negro elementary school. It is a custom of the board to meet for dinner in informal discussion. Usually, its business is thrashed out there and its decisions are ratified in cut-and-dried formal sessions which follow.

In this instance, the board, after discussing the question, decided not to permit the Negroes to exercise their right of petition. In the formal meeting which followed, this decision was made official. Here was an arbitrary and high-handed action for which the board has presented no excuse and made no apology. It has become an issue in the injunction suit which Negro protesters have filed against the Board of Education.

Just what happened at the dinner on the evening of Nov. 10? Why did the board turn away a group of citizens in defiance of their right of petition? The answers to these questions are shrouded in secrecy. At the taking of depositions prior to the hearing of the injunction suit, the plaintiffs' right to inquire into the Board of Education's discussions was questioned.

It seems to us that the board's discussions leading to the decision not to hear the petitioners should be thoroughly aired and that no technicalities should bar the way. These discussions may throw interesting light on the selection of a site for the new school which is bitterly opposed by the Negroes. If the board has nothing to conceal, why should technicalities be allowed to conceal it?

THE STRANGE CASE OF WILLIAM MOUNCE.

The strange case of William Mounce has become a matter of keen public interest. Mounce was the driver of an automobile which killed Miss Stella Hildebrand last February. Mounce fled from the scene of the accident. Four days later, police caught him red-handed in the basement of his home, where he surreptitiously was attempting to repair the front end of his car. A sack had been placed over the window so he could not be observed at work.

On Dec. 4, Mounce pleaded guilty to two charges: manslaughter and leaving the scene of an accident, and was sentenced to six months in jail at Clayton. Several hours later, the St. Louis County Parole Board, consisting of the four Circuit Judges and Prosecuting Attorney Anderson, handed him a parole. Mounce's attempt at defense was no defense at all. He told police he thought his car had hit a dog, but later, after reading a woman had been killed, "figured it was too late to do anything." He thus became a fugitive from justice.

Why was Mounce paroled? What extenuating circumstances, if any, did the board discover to justify its action?

The second chapter of the Mounce case has now been enacted. Relatives of Miss Hildebrand asked the Parole Board to reopen the case. They contended they had not been informed of the trial date, though one of them asserted she had received repeated assurance from the Prosecuting Attorney's office that she would be notified. The relatives' request for reopening the case was made in vain. The board took no action upon it.

Miss Hildebrand is dead, Mounce is free. Why did the board, having made a questionable decision in the first place, decline to reconsider its action?

At the same session of the board, it declined to parole another motorist—Frank Slepman—who pleaded guilty to leaving the scene of an accident in which Aubrey O. Parker was killed. Slepman surrendered after reading of the death of Parker and was given six months. He declared he did not know he had struck anyone.

Slepman surrendered, got six months. Mounce failed to surrender and was given a parole. Why?

INDORSEMENT OF DRIVERS' LICENSE.

The battle for a State drivers' license law, which will be resumed at the next session of the Missouri Legislature, has gained powerful and significant support. The Missouri Traffic Survey Committee, in its formal recommendations to the Governor, strongly indorses the measure. Other constructive proposals are made as well, looking toward reducing the accident hazard on the State's streets and highways. The drivers' license law is presented "as an adjunct to more rigid enforcement and better control of motor vehicle operators."

The measure provides for control of reckless drivers by suspension or revocation of their licenses. By this means, a powerful incentive to careful driving is established, and an effective means of keeping careless motorists off the highways. The present plan of city licenses was never more than a half-measure. To extend protection to the entire State, to help reduce the frightful toll of motor accidents, the Legislature should heed the counsel of the Traffic Survey Committee, and numerous other organizations, that a State-wide drivers' license law be enacted.

HELEN ON BROADWAY.

"And gathers all things mortal..." Swinburne wasn't talking about New York, but he very well might have been. Thither they drift, from North and South, from West and East, all the sons and daughters upon whom celebrity has radiantly beamed or tentatively smiled. The latest pilgrim to join "that innumerable throng" is Helen Stephens, Diana of Fulton, whose feet are shod with lightning.

Hostess in a Broadway hotel bar is the eminence which now beguiles her, and the camera presents Helen, shaker in hand, experimenting in the contrivance of a cocktail. Of cocktails there are many, and, periodically, a new face, so to speak, is introduced into the gallery, under beguiling auspices, and with a luring name. A brief vogue and they are gone, and the Side Car of yesterday's acclaim is today obsolete. The Manhattan survives in the sentimentality of veteran practitioners, and it may be that New Orleans has not wholly lost the formula of the Sazerac, but the only cocktail to have and to hold the mob's devotion is the Martini.

An elementally simple thing, the Martini, a blending of vermouth and gin, in such proportions as varying addition desires, with a touch of orange bitters in some instances, though mostly the two simple ingredients, ineffably flavored, at times, with the impalpable oil of a thick-skinned lemon's peel.

There you are. The very essence of simplicity. Yet the maestro appears but rarely who has possessed himself of the Martini's secret. Possibly Helen Stephens will acquire the art of endowing the Martini with the rhythm of a lyric and the vague, haunting spirit of the rose. If she does, New York will bless her, connoisseurs of canopies her and Fulton remember her, days without end.

NOT THE TOWNSEND FINISH.

The recent report of the House Investigating Committee should be the death knell of the Townsend plan. Its finding agrees with that of all competent economists who have examined the old-age pension scheme: that "10 per cent of the people would receive half of the national income from the labor of the other 90 per cent," and that the result would be to "bring chaos" to the country. The committee hearings were useful in casting needed light on the workings of the organization and the impracticability of the plan. The testimony of Dr. Townsend himself was quite as damaging to his cause as that of any critic.

The death knell of the Townsend plan cannot yet be sounded, however, and because of the actions of the committee itself. Dr. Townsend and two of his aids are under indictment for contempt. When they are tried, the spotlight of publicity will again fall upon them, and also the aura of martyrdom. It was the committee's relentless grilling that caused the California physician at length to walk out of the hearing. What should have been the end of the movement became only the springboard for further publicity and possibly a new recruiting drive.

THE REINDEER HELPS THIS YEAR.

A Canadian View of the Abdication

Either morganatic marriage or Edward's abandonment of Mrs. Simpson would have shaken crown's prestige, says Montreal newspaper; King's departure viewed as inevitable from the moment unity behind Baldwin was shown; high praise for his handling of difficult situation; notes unanimity of people on question of morals.

From the Montreal Daily Star.

KING EDWARD'S abdication has come with the fated inevitability of a Greek tragedy. From the moment when it was shown that Parliament and the Empire were behind Mr. Baldwin and his colleagues in taking a resolute stand against a marriage that would have shocked all that is best and cleanest and most responsible among the subjects of the Empire by laying down a scepter which he could no longer wield, it was well-nigh impossible to see any way out of the entanglement short of abdication.

Marriage was impossible—so long as marriage meant that the King's wife would be Queen. A morganatic marriage, proposed by some, would have been revoltingly alien to the decent instincts of the whole Anglo-Saxon race. For the King to have yielded and abandoned the woman for whom he had already sacrificed so much would have been fatal to that prestige of kingship which we require in our monarchs.

So King Edward VIII takes his farewell. His late subjects will feel that nothing has become him better than his way of serving the best interests of the Empire by laying down a scepter which he could no longer wield. It would be most ungracious at this moment to regard his motives from any other than the aspect in which they present themselves to his own eyes. We may well take the fine attitude of Mr. Baldwin—a "father" who has failed in trying to help a "son."

The Duke of York comes to the throne. He has already won to an extraordinary degree the respect and admiration of British peoples everywhere. His dignity, his urbane interest in the affairs of his people, not least the appeal of his Scottish wife and two lovely children, will come as a balm to the hearts of all of us, sadly torn during these latter days by afflictions for which we were ill-prepared by a century of tranquil rule under our royal house. His presence will steady the throne, an institution and a symbol that is of far more importance than any one man.

Now that the crisis is over, it may be as well to say some things which might have appeared invidious while the fate of the ex-King was precariously at stake. The first is that it would take far more than the mistakes of one man, be he monarch or minister, to break up the British Empire. The throne is a tie. It is a symbol of hoary tradition which British peoples all round the world can look to as the living institution which binds them together. But the human being—sometimes the very human being—who occupies the throne could not displace or destroy the Empire if he tried.

Another thing that should be said is that the men in the outer marches of the Empire were never prouder than they are today of the men who at the center must bear most of the burden of that vast commonwealth. Some of us may have been a bit shaken when the British Government seemed to be stumbling into the penumbra of war over Ethiopia. Others may have been critical on other points. But that is now all gone. Stanley Baldwin has acquitted himself in the very highest traditions of British statesmanship. He was never more admired. He was never more trusted. So long as British soil produces men of his fiber and modest devotion to duty, the fate of the Empire is safe in their hands.

A third fact worth recording is the spontaneous unanimity of the British peoples on a question of morals. We were not persecuting an unhappy woman. We were not thwarting the affections of a man, simply because he was King. We were merely saying that there are certain laxities, growing to a disquieting extent in modern society, which we absolutely refused to see given the tremendous prestige of elevation to the British throne.

Mr. Baldwin's direct and moving speech to the House of Commons paints for us a picture of kindly solicitude and paternal patience during these trying days. While we all thought of bitter clashes, of exacerbated wounds and surly defiance, it seems that these two British men were quietly discussing a very difficult situation, in the utmost amity, and trying to find a solution that would be acceptable to both and to the Empire. They failed. Under the circumstances, it is probably as well that they did fail.

The grave situation that Mr. Baldwin presented to King Edward as likely to arise if the criticisms on all sides continued was not overdrawn. The British monarchy is the last of the great monarchies. "Long may it last!" is the prayer of all of us. It exactly suits the temper of our people, and the circumstances of our world-circling Empire. But, as Mr. Baldwin said, the greatest popularity and even the greatest respect in which the crown is held are sentiments that can be all too easily lost. "And once lost," said the Prime Minister, "I doubt if anything could restore them." In fact, a restored monarchy is a crippled monarchy.

So it is too much to say that Stanley Baldwin, English country squire, has done more for the British monarchy in the last week than has ever been needed to be done before?

GO TO IT, DR. EINSTEIN.

From the Detroit News.

THOSE who have tried to follow Einstein through interstellar spaces, convinced that sooner or later he would get off something they could understand, are rewarded for their patience. The great physicist has come to earth with an adaptation of the photo-electric cell which automatically adjusts a camera lens so that the right exposure is obtained. The details of the doctor's device are a bit baffling to the lay mind, but the invention as a whole is something we can grasp.

While the doctor is slumming on our intellectual level, there are other needed inventions which bespeak his notice. A road map that snaps back instantly into its original folds would save countless lives on our teeming highways. We need a key-winding can that opens without a fight. A paralysis ray to still the radio in the next apartment would be widely acclaimed. We need an automobile horn which actuates a strong brake whenever it is employed. We need a self-lighting, self-cleaning pipe. We need lots and lots of things more than we need curved space.

Overlapping Taxes

From the New York Sun.

THE Treasury Department's report on double taxation is interesting not only because it shows the extent of conflict and competition between the Federal Government and the states, but also because it indicates a growing conviction that duplication of taxes ought to be abolished by co-operation between the states and the Federal Government.

The ultimate solution of this problem depends upon the determination of priority in the several fields in which overlapping has occurred. In some instances, the figures for tax yield give a definite clue to priority. The gasoline tax brought $389,000,000 to the states in 1935, when the yield of the Federal tax was $161,000,000.

These figures reflect what actually happened: the pioneering by a few states, the growing appeal of the tax as a means to make users pay for the construction and maintenance of highways, the slow but steady increase of the tax rate, the late entrance of the Government into the field.

Though this summary of the history of the gasoline tax shows that the Federal Government invaded a field developed by the states, the yield of the Federal gasoline tax is so large and the cost of collection so slight that it will be difficult to persuade Congress to repeal the tax.

Taxes are not patented or copyrighted; the originator of a tax, whether county, state or Federal Government, may seek to establish its priority, but a productive tax, working well in one jurisdiction, discourages thought of pre-empted fields of taxation.

In similar fashion, it could be argued that the states are invaders of the field of taxation of corporate and personal income. This invasion has been particularly rapid in the past five years, during which period 15 states joined the 19 previously taxing incomes of individuals or corporations.

A tentative allocation of the fields of taxation in which the Federal Government and the states now conflict might be as follows: the Federal Government to retain corporation and individual income taxes, liquor and tobacco taxes; the states to retain the gasoline, estate and inheritance taxes. The Government would impose no estate, inheritance or gasoline taxes; the states would levy no taxes on income, tobacco or liquor.

The obvious retort to this program is that the redistribution of taxes between the Federal Government on the one hand and the states on the other would call for sacrifices on both sides and would lead to gains for neither side. In other words, if the Federal Government ceased to collect $161,000,000 in gasoline taxes, that sum would not necessarily be diverted to the states. If the states ceased to collect $389,000,000 a year from tobacco taxes, Federal revenue from this source would not necessarily increase.

This argument is true, though its force is limited by the fact that a decrease in tax rate often leads to an increase in yield.

This argument loses sight of one important fact. If the Federal gasoline tax were repealed, if state income taxes were done away with, if the states left the taxation of liquor to the Federal Government, there would be many beneficiaries—those taxpayers who are now taxed twice, those ultimate consumers who are the true victims of the duplication of taxes.

The subject of overlapping taxation has been under general discussion for many years. That discussion might be made more specific and might lead to actual results if a definite program were taken as a basis for legislative effort.

Peace for Spain

NOTHING would appear to be more hopelessly impracticable than the proposal to stop the Spanish war and arrange a pacific settlement. Yet the very reasons which now make mediation seem so hopeless may shortly prove to be the only reasons why it must be attempted.

For, however hopeless the prospect of such a solution may look, the prospect of any other solution may soon look even more hopeless. It may well be that the time is not far off when the leading Powers of the Western world will find that for them the only safe course is to intervene boldly with both Spanish factions, asking them to lay down their arms and to come to some sort of arrangement.

That time may have come if Gen. Franco's next attack on Madrid ends also in a stalemate. For it will then have been demonstrated that neither of the Spanish parties is strong enough to overcome the other and then to govern the country.

It seems plain, for example, that in the first phase of the struggle, Gen. Franco was unable to start a national uprising of the Spanish people, that he failed to overthrow the Madrid Government by revolution. It is plain that, in the second phase, his numerically inferior but better trained troops were able to make headway only in the more sparsely populated regions and that they were held at bay when they reached the large cities where the industrial workers are massed.

It is plain, too, that as the struggle among the Spaniards themselves proved to be indecisive, the war entered a third and more dangerous phase in which the Italians and the Germans on the one side, the Russians on the other, have been taking charge of the Spanish civil war. If this phase continues, even if it does not bring on a general European war, the question may soon be, not whether Spain is to be governed by Spanish conservatives or Spanish Communists, but whether Spain is to be conquered by Italy and Germany or by Russia.

This is by no means an unreal possibility. For consider the problem which Gen. Franco would face if he won the war and had then to govern Spain. He would be the chief of a bankrupt Government in a country which has been widely devastated. He would have been brought to power, not by the uprising of his own people, but by the bayonets of Moscow, by the tanks and airplanes and bombs of foreign Powers.

How could he hope to maintain such a Government except by the help of his patrons in Rome and Berlin? And what help could they give him? They could give him arms, no doubt. But what else could they give him, what kind of economic and financial assistance could they offer him with which to restore the shattered economy of the Spanish people? At best, only the kind of assistance which would make of Spain a colonial dependency of the Fascist states. Thus, the victory of the nationalist cause would seem to promise only the extinction of the national independence of Spain.

On the other hand, a victory by the Madrid Government would be equally unpromising. For that Government would also have to govern by terror and it, too, would have been raised to power, not by its own popular support, but by arms and officers and officials coming chiefly from Russia.

For however democratic the Spanish Government may have been when the rebellion started last summer, it has steadily degenerated into a proletarian dictatorship under the guidance and dependent upon foreign support. If all went well with it, it could not hope to suppress the counter-revolution for years and years to come. During that "transitional" period, which in Russia has lasted for nearly 20 years, dictatorship based on terrorism would alone be possible. It is almost inconceivable that such a state of affairs would not sooner or later provoke foreign intervention.

Besides these alternatives, bad as they are, there is a third possibility which would be even worse. If the war continues, it is even more probable. It is that the two nominally Spanish factions may be entirely unable to reach a decision and that their war will gradually develop into an international war.

This is what has actually begun to happen in the last few weeks: the respective patrons of both sides have been intervening more and more aggressively. The net effect has been to intensify the struggle, to aggravate the horror and the misery, and to bring a decision no nearer.

All this has happened under the cover of a solemn international agreement not to interfere in the Spanish civil war. Clearly, that agreement may soon cease to be even a useful fiction, a convenient piece of hypocrisy. At that moment, the Powers concerned, with peace rather than with the victory of one side or the other, namely Britain and France and the nations of the League, must make a great decision. They must either let the Italo-German combination fight it out with Russia for the mastery of the Spanish peninsula or they must bring the war to an end.

Either course has its dangers, but of the two, a decisive intervention for peace would appear to be the less dangerous. In the first place, Britain and France together are still overwhelmingly stronger in Western Europe than the others. Their authority in that part of the world is very great, once they decide to assert it unmistakably. They could almost certainly count on the moral support of all the League nations and the nations in this hemisphere.

Skilful diplomacy might very well save the face of Mussolini, Hitler and Stalin, all of whom may be realizing that they have staked their prestige in a region where it is not likely to be enhanced. A clear, simple and disinterested proposal for a truce, then for a peace, then for a reconstruction, might then be made very difficult to reject.

The occasion for the offer might very well be a military stalemate at Madrid, with a cruel, hard winter ahead. The force of the offer would lie in the recognition that no Spanish party can win the civil war, that to go on to try to impose it into a European war, and finally, that it is the disinterested Powers, Britain and France, which alone can give Spain the help needed to repair the devastation and to heal her wounds.

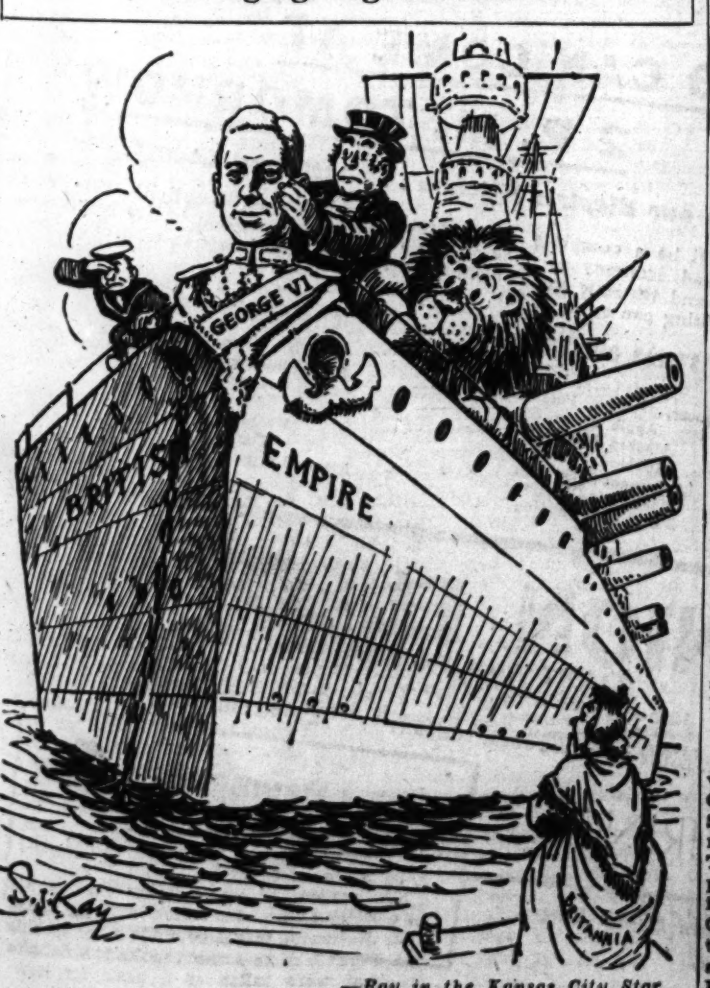

If the attempt is made to bring peace to Spain, there is no reason why the United States Government, preferably in collaboration with Pan-America, should not support it. For it has never been part of the doctrine of non-entanglement in Europe that we should hold back from the use of our good offices to prevent war or to end a war.

For the best of all ways of staying out of European wars and entanglements is to prevent European wars, and while it is not our business to take the initiative in trying to settle a European quarrel, it is very much to our own interest that the initiative, if taken, should succeed.

Nor would that moral support be an empty gesture. For after the fighting is over, there must be a reconstruction. It will be an excellent form of national insurance for this country to assist it.

'SCANDALS' ARRIVE AT AMERICAN THEATER

Willie and Eugene Howard, Helen Morgan Headliners in Latest George White Show

GEORGE WHITE'S SCANDALS, a revue with dialogue by George White and William K. Walla, lyrics by Jack Yellen and music by Ray Henderson. Dances staged by Russell Markert. Presented by George White at the American Theater, with Willie and Eugene Howard and Helen Morgan as stars and the following other principals: Earl Oxford, Sam, Ted and Ray, George DeWitt Washington, the Stanley Twins, Richard and Estelle Jayne, Claire McQuillen, Fred Mannett, Alice Carlisle, Gloria Rich and Edna East.

By COLVIN McPHERSON. TRAVEL-WORN by a trip through most of the United States, but with life and pep remaining, nevertheless, George White's twelfth stage edition of the "Scandals" put up at the American Theater last night and convinced a good-sized audience it was having a good time. The show continues for the conventional week, with Saturday matinee.

A glance over the program, wherein one sees Helen Morgan and Willie and Eugene Howard in a light print, many times, might lead one to think the revue was a repetitious recital for these budding artists. Enjoyment of the evening does require a liking for their particular talents, but the "Scandals" is, or was, a bit more than that.

It has witty satire on subjects that were in the news a year ago, it makes fun of streamlining trains, "Brother Sublime of Harlem" and boondoggling, it even interpolates a line about "abduction." It dramatizes the excesses and deficiencies of love in a manner that always gets a howling response. It shows a number of cigarette number and a red-goggles display—pretty smart affairs, or must have been in the beginning.

Yet another chorus stunt, with torsos cartooned to represent opium men, would cheapen a burlesque house bill. And costumes which started out as gossamer creations, probably, look like bargain curtains after a St. Louis so-called orgy. The songs, too, "Anything Can Happen" and "Life Begins at Sweet Sixteen," have been ground pretty well under heel in the march of time.

The Howards, or the Howards, summarize their successes in the theater over a period of years. Willie, looking older than Rachmaninoff, still is a panle, more or less. As a husband plotting his wife's murder, as Prof. Ginsburg giving a French lesson over radio, as a false-forehead Mussolini, murderer in the electric chair or the peeping-end-man in a "Rigoleto" quartet, the shifty-eyed, shifty-browed, shifty-eared comedian gets away with it as delightfully as ever.

Helen Morgan, in frail testimonials, shoulders a repertoire which comes eventually to a medley of "Bill," "Can't Help Lovin' That Man," "Make Believe," "Why Do I Love You" and a few other ditties. Although she might have added a new and appropriate turn by sitting on a show-bust, she hops onto a well-nicked piano and we are sure it is Helen.

Next to the principals, a Negro dance trio, Sam, Ted and Ray, clicked best. Entering voluntarily into the role of applause meter, I should say these performers actually did better than the stars. The Stanley Twins, Junesque dance duo, also hit top in two appearances. Generally speaking, however, the "Scandals," as St. Louis sees them this week, are just a few stops from the storehouse. And for many items, that journey's end will be a homecoming.

21,000 PERSONS IN DAY VIEW CHRISTMAS FLOWER DISPLAYS

Exhibits at Jewel Box, Shaw's Garden and Board of Education Conservatory.

More than 21,000 persons attended Christmas displays of flowers yesterday at the new Jewel Box conservatory in Forest Park, at Shaw's Garden, and at the Board of Education display house, Block street and Field avenue. Poinsettias, the traditional Christmas flower, white stevias, Jerusalem cherries, chrysanthemums and other plants made up the displays.

At Shaw's Garden the turnstiles recorded 6920 visitors. Attendees at the Jewel Box and the Board of Education display house totaled 13,000 and 2000, respectively.

The Jewel Box will be open daily from 9 a. m. to 9:30 p. m. and Shaw's Garden and the Board of Education display from 9 a. m. to p. m. until after Jan. 1.

ELY CULBERTSON "SET" $2447 Tax Commissioner Files Liens Against Bridge Expert and Wife. NEW YORK, Dec. 14.—Ely Culbertson, contract bridge expert, was "set" $2447.19 by the State Tax Commissioner. His co-expert wife, Mrs. Josephine Culbertson, had an even bigger adverse balance on the Commissioner's score-pad, with a total of $2647.42.

Deputy Commissioner Seth T. Cole, in filing the two liens, said they were for income taxes which should have been paid in 1933 and 1934.

Pageant at Tyler Place Church. Observance of the fortieth anniversary of Tyler Place Presbyterian Church, Russell boulevard and Church, will continue to Spring avenue, will continue to night with a pageant and reception. Two former pastors of the church preached at the anniversary service yesterday, the Rev. Dr. Robert C. Williamson in the morning and the Rev. Dr. R. Ames Montgomery at the vesper service. The Rev. Dr. Edmund F. Miller is pastor.

TODAY'S debutante calendar discloses two parties. One was a luncheon given at 1 o'clock today by Mrs. Charles Carr and her daughter, Mrs. Sim Beam Comfort, at Mrs. Carr's home, 250 South Jefferson road, Webster Groves, in honor of Miss Ruth Donnell.

Mrs. Comfort presided at the debutantes' table, which was decorated by a centerpiece of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums. Corages of yellow pompons marked the following places: Miss Donnell, Miss Jane Chappelow, Miss Mary Fox Greenleaf, Miss Laura Ray, Miss Marjorie Morris, Miss Harriet Edwards, Miss Mary Alice Collins, Miss Virginia Brown, Miss Emma Lucy Stuever, Miss Marjorie McCarthy and Miss Abden Knight.

Mrs. Carr entertained Mrs. Forrest Donnell, mother of the honored guest, Mrs. Gale Johnston and Mrs. Clemence Hein.

Miss Effie Virginia Zeibig, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hunt Zeibig, will be the honored guest at a small theater party to be given by Mr. and Mrs. Oliver M. Clifford, 11 Hortense place, tonight at the American Theater. Following the play, the debutantes and their escort will enjoy a supper party at the Chase Hotel.

Because of mourning in the family, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford will not be present during the evening.

Miss Zeibig, who will make her debut at a party Sunday, St. Louis Country Club, Saturday night, will have as her house guest Miss Dorothy Drummond of Chicago, formerly of St. Louis, and granddaughter of Mrs. Thomas J. Drummond. Miss Drummond will arrive Friday and will return to her home Christmas eve. She and Miss Zeibig were classmates at Mary Institute.

Miss Jane Johnson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew W. Johnson, 16 Portland place, who has spent the fall season fox hunting at Moton Mowbray, London, England, will arrive home Christmas eve. She is sailing Wednesday on the Europa.

Mrs. Johnson's son, Jackson, who is a student at St. Mark's School in Massachusetts will be here Saturday to spend the holidays with his family.

Mr. and Mrs. Johnson plan to open their winter home at Miami Beach, Fla., in February.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert P. McCulloch of Wilford, Ill., will arrive a few days before Christmas to spend the holidays with Mr. McCulloch's father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. Richard McCulloch, 4394 Westminster place. Their other son and daughter-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. John I. Beggs McCulloch of Palo Alto, Cal., have not definitely decided whether they will be here Christmas week.

Miss Blair Bunting, daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. John S. Bunting, 5544 Cates avenue, will be hostess at a small indoor dinner at Hotel Jefferson and Princeton Triangle party Dec. 23 at which her aunt, Mrs. Forrest Brewington, will be hostess.

Mr. and Mrs. David P. Wohl, 6400 Forsythe boulevard, are expecting their two daughters, Miss Francelle R. and Miss Elizabeth, for the holidays.

DR. HOLT AGAIN ADVOCATES PROTESTANT CHURCH UNION

Completing Term as Head of Federal Council, He Outlines Goals of Organization.

The Rev. Dr. Ivan Lee Holt, who has completed his two-year term as president of the Federal Council, Churches of Christ in America, preached yesterday to his congregation at St. John's Methodist Church, on the goals of inter-church action to be accomplished through the Federal Council. He told of endeavors, during his term, to establish a fellowship of Christian groups in the Pacific regions; to conduct a spiritual crusade, which took the form of the National reaching mission; and the closer linking of churches in this country. He repeated his former expressions advocating a union of Protestant churches.

Dr. Holt has been succeeded as head of the Federal Council by the Rev. Dr. Edgar DeWitt Jones of Detroit.

PUBLIC MEETINGS AND ENTERTAINMENTS

Alfred M. Bingham, editor of "Common Sense" and secretary of the American Commonwealth Federation, will speak on "No Bigger Than a Man's Hand" tonight at 8 o'clock at Soldan High School auditorium. The lecture is sponsored by the League for Industrial Democracy.

W. N. Halgrove, Illinoisan, Dies. By the Associated Press. JACKSONVILLE, Ill., Dec. 14.—William N. Halgrove, 70 years old, active for years in the Democratic party and Illinois legal circles, died at midnight at a hospital here. Physicians said his death was due to an infection which followed the extraction of a tooth last week. Halgrove served several terms as Governor of the State Bar Association and at the time of his death was an assistant to Attorney-General Otto Kern.

Col. H. N. Phillips, Lawyer, Dies. MALDEN, Mo., Dec. 14.—Col. Henry N. Phillips, 94 years old, said to have been the oldest practicing attorney in Missouri, died here last night. He served in the Confederate army. He was admitted to the bar in 1872. Funeral services will be held tomorrow.

Camden Ferry Raised.
CAMDENTON, Mo., Dec. 14.—
State highway 5 is opened again to traffic north of Camden. The ferryboat "Governor McClurg," at the bottom of the lake for months, was raised and put into operation again. A bridge is being built at this point to supplant the ferry.

resolutions urging intensification of inter-American trade through lower tariff barriers and commercial treaties.

Also up for committee action is the proposal for an inter-American court of justice suggested by the Central American nations.

Secretary of State Hull of the United States introduced two resolutions on trade. One calls for equality of treatment and declares that the American republics "are convinced the growth of international trade can serve greatly to strengthen the foundations of peace by improving the material welfare and contentment of nations."

It declares the benefits may be achieved only "if governmental policies regulating trade conform to the spirit and equity of neighborliness. Contrary policies which convey special advantages create resentment and disputes between nations and frustrate the peaceful ends trade should serve."

Equality of Treatment.
The resolution then declares the American republics "reaffirm the Montevideo declaration that 'the principle of equality of treatment stands and must continue to stand as the basis of all acceptable commercial policy.'"

The resolution also pledges that the nations will "refrain from seeking preferential treatment in international trade."

Hull's second resolution provides that the American republics:
"Shall proceed with the definite objective of reducing unreasonable and excessive trade barriers of all kinds"; "declare the complete indication of so directing policies as to avoid to the utmost extent the possible creation and imposition of any new obstacles to importations";
"affirm the intention that in all new action which directly or indirectly affects imports from the subscribing nations they will be guided by the unconditional most-favored-nation principle" and any advantages they extend to any other country in the future will be extended to all subscribing countries.

The preamble declares trade restrictions are "contributing to discontent and fear and controversy in many countries and between many countries."

It added that "the seeds of conflict are easily sown among peoples who find living conditions unsatisfactory and opportunities for economic improvement limited."

Methodist Peace Commission Urges World Economic Conference.
By the Associated Press.
CHICAGO, Dec. 14.—The Methodist Episcopal World Peace Commission urged the conference at Buenos Aires yesterday to convoke a world economic conference.

Executive Secretary Charles F.
Boss sent this cablegram to the parley in Argentina: "Implore conference to unite in making impossible the participation in any European war. Urge the adoption of mutually acceptable plans of economic co-operation which may serve as a pattern for the economic welfare and peace of the world and initiate an invitation for a world economic conference."

Outlook for League Proposal.
Authoritative sources forecast today the proposals for an American League of Nations and an American court would be shelved by the conference.

Juan Antonio Buero of Uruguay, chairman of a subcommittee which studied the projects submitted by several nations, prepared reports urging that the subjects be referred to the regular Pan-American Conference at Lima in 1938 after experts have studied them in the meantime.

A poll of members of the subcommittee indicated his recommendations would receive majority support. The United States is understood to oppose both measures in their present form.

12,000 A MONTH QUIT CCC FOR PRIVATE EMPLOYMENT

Director Fechner Recommends Program Be Made Permanent, Under Civil Service.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—Reporting that 12,000 young men left the Civilian Conservation Corps for outside jobs each month in 1936, Robert Fechner recommended today that the program be made permanent.

His annual report as Director of Emergency Conservation Work showed a CCC enrollment of 378-467 for the year.

"As long as there are young men, eager to work, yet idle through no fault of their own," he said, "the CCC can continue to be an effective part of our national policy, because the work of conservation which needs doing is so great as to be able to use, for many years, the services of many men."

"The average boy who has served a few months in the corps is much more likely to get and hold a job than he would have been without his training in the corps."

If CCC is made permanent, Fechner added, "it is strongly urged and recommended that all positions save enrollees and intermittent workers should be placed under the classified civil service."

Robbers Abandon Safe; $5 Stolen.
A safe in the office of Denker's Bakery Co., 923 North Second street, St. Charles, was moved from its place against the wall to the center of the floor by intruders, early yesterday, who apparently abandoned efforts to load it on a truck of the company, parked near a door. A patrolman, who saw the truck, investigated and saw the safe out of place, the hinges damaged.

concealing something from you?" "I wouldn't want to say that," Potter replied, asking for time to produce further "facts" relating to the Missouri Pacific deal.

Limitation on Borrowing. Earlier in the hearing it had been brought out by John P. Murphy, attorney for many years for the Van Sweringens and familiar with the elaborate holding company structure the two brothers built up, that there was no major restriction on the borrowing power of the Van Sweringens in the charter of the Alleghany Corporation. The borrowing power was specifically limited to an amount equal to 60 per cent of the assets of the corporation, Murphy declared.

Because of this limitation, Wheeler sought to bring out in questioning Potter, it was impossible for the Van Sweringens to borrow funds to carry out the deal they had made with the Armour and Swifts to buy terminal properties for the Missouri Pacific at North Kansas City, Mo., and St. Joseph, Mo. The contract for these properties called for a payment of $10,000,000 in October, 1936. And at that time the Van Sweringens had already exceeded the 60 per cent limitation, Wheeler showed.

Wheeler Charges Subterfuge. To raise the $10,000,000, the Van Sweringens sold to J. P. Morgan & Co., $10,500,000 of Missouri Pacific bonds, with an option to repurchase these bonds six months later. What Wheeler tried to establish was that this transaction was merely a "subterfuge" to get around the limitation on borrowing in the charter.

In support of this view Wheeler introduced a series of interoffice memoranda giving details of discussions between officers of the Morgan bank, the Guaranty Trust Co., and the First National Bank of New York. The latter two had been "cut in" by the Missouri Pacific bond transaction. When the bond market continued to sag and it appeared that the banks would actually have to take a loss on the deal, the memoranda showed various plans were considered for having the Van Sweringens make up this loss out of their own private bank account. It was indicated that the Van Sweringens had given their assent to some such plan.

Potter ascribed these memoranda to "careless" young officers of the bank and in response to Wheeler's insistent questioning said he had advised against any such arrangement as a "crooked" and "immoral" effort to get around the borrowing restriction in Alleghany's charter.

"I told them that we had suffered a loss and there was nothing to do but take the loss," Potter said.

Wheeler, citing the prospectuses issued for Alleghany securities, was highly critical of the practice of lawyers' lending their services to the flotation of securities. He pointed out that John W. Davis, head of the New York law firm representing the Morgan bank, had his name on the Alleghany securities. And also, according to Wheeler, these same lawyers approved the purchase of the terminal properties from Armour and Swift.

"He approved of that deal," Wheeler said, "and let me add that Judge Farris in St. Louis, in the Circuit Court there, has called this an 'unconscionable' contract, illegal and contrary to the anti-trust laws."

Wheeler, after recalling Murphy to the stand, read at length from Judge Farris' decision on the Terminal shares deal. Murphy said he disagreed with Farris' interpretation of the deal. He added that in referring to "corrupt" railroad financing, he did not believe Judge Farris had the Van Sweringens brothers in mind.

"I disagree with you," Wheeler said. "I think he expressly had the Van Sweringens in mind."

Wheeler described the Van Sweringens deal with the Morgan bank for the Missouri Pacific bonds as a "heads I win, tails you lose" transaction. But he could not get from Potter an admission that this was merely a "disguised" method of making still another loan to the two railroad financiers.

At the afternoon session Wheeler introduced still another memorandum showing that O. P. Van Sweringens approached Morgan & Co. with the proposal to sell the $10,000,000 of Missouri Pacific bonds,

CENTRAL TRADES ELECTION

The only contest at the annual election of officers of the Central Trades & Labor Union, to be held Dec. 27, will be for vice-president. At a meeting yesterday Jack Worley, representing a painters' local union, was nominated to oppose Vice-president Mary Ryder.

Other officers, who will be re-elected, are: Joseph Clark, president; William M. Brandt, executive secretary; John Rosfeldt, treasurer; C. P. Morgan, secretary-at-large; and Martin Dillon, Ray Joyce and John Rollins, trustees.

FOR SPEEDIER PROSECUTION FOR UNFAIR TRADE PRACTICES

Federal Commission Would Have Court Issue Order in Affirming Its Rulings.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The Federal Trade Commission renewed yesterday its request for legislation to speed prosecution of offenders of the fair trade practice laws. The commission asked that provision be made for an immediate court review of a commission order to desist from fair trade practices, without the necessity of the commission first proving violation of the order. Upon affirmation of the order by the court, the commission proposed that the court issue its own order. If a respondent fails to apply for a court review in 60 days thereafter, the commission proposed that the order become final. Violation would be classified as contempt of court.

The commission reported 1827 complaints of unfair competition were investigated during the year, as compared with 1695 in the previous 12 months. It issued 386 formal complaints, alleging various forms of unfair competition and other unlawful practices, compared with 280 such complaints in the preceding period. It issued 161 "cease and desist" orders during the year, as compared with 126 the year before.

Fifteen of the commission's orders were carried to the United States Circuit Courts of Appeals for review, all being sustained, the report said. No commission order reached the Supreme Court during the year for a decision on its merits.

MAN AND HOUSEKEEPER ACCUSED OF POISONING

Arrested in Death of His Daughter, 15, Who Objected to Their Conduct.

By the Associated Press.
WILMINGTON, N. C., Dec. 14.—E. L. Smoak and his housekeeper, Mrs. Genette Harker, a widow, 28 years old, were arrested yesterday on the order of Solicitor (State's Attorney) John J. Burney, who charged them with poisoning Smoak's 15-year-old daughter, Annie Thelma.

The girl died at her father's home here Dec. 1, eight days after she returned from a month's stay with an aunt, Mrs. O. W. Jackson of Wilmington.

A toxicologist reported finding traces of poison in her body. Burney said she had gone to her aunt's because of her father's relations with Mrs. Harker, who had been living at the Smoak home since death of the second Mrs. Smoak, the former Miss Alice Mason of Wilmington, on July 8, 1935.

Records at a drug store showed Smoak bought 60 grains of poison Nov. 15 and a partly-filled bottle of the poison was found in Smoak's locker at the railroad shop where he worked after he and Mrs. Harker were arrested.

The first Mrs. Smoak, the former Miss Georgia Jones, of Wilmington, died on Feb. 10, 1922. Annie Thelma was her daughter.

The deaths of Smoak's two wives continued under investigation.

GREEN ESTATE TAX IN SUPREME COURT

Texas Petitions for Right to Sue Other States in $10,000,000 Claim.

By the Associated Press.
WASHINGTON, Dec. 14.—The State of Texas today filed a motion in the United States Supreme Court in an effort to collect an inheritance tax of about $10,000,000 from the estate left by Col. Edward H. R. Green, son of Hetty Green.

Attorney-General William McGraw of Texas asked the Supreme Court for permission to file a bill of complaint against the states of New York, Massachusetts and Florida and against Sylvia Green Wilkes, sister of Green, and Mabel Harlow Green, the widow.

Col. Green died in New York in June, leaving an estate of a value estimated at more than $30,000,000. In its petition Texas set forth that Col. Green in 1892 abandoned domiciles in other states and took up residence in Dallas, Tex.

"Thereafter," said the petition, "he continuously maintained such domicile, until his death, and repeatedly every year until his death, he reaffirmed his choice of Texas as his choice of permanent domicile . . . and declared every other state, including New York, Massachusetts and Florida, not to be his domicile."

Each of the other three states has claimed Green as a resident, and each has demanded an inheritance tax of Sylvia Green Wilkes and Mabel Harlow Green.

SEVERSKY CLAIMS AIR SPEED RECORD, NEW YORK TO MIAMI

Averages 265 Miles an Hour Between Cities; Slower Than Hughes' Northward Flight.
MIAMI, Fla., Dec. 14.—Major Alexander P. de Seversky, Russian war-time flyer and aeronautical engineer, arrived here yesterday in his amphibian plane, five hours and 46 minutes after leaving Floyd Bennett Field in New York. He said he had set a record for the southward trip.

Seversky took off at 11:40 a. m. and landed here at 5:26 p. m., making an average speed of 265 miles an hour. The figures have not been checked officially. Howard Hughes, motion picture producer, holds the speed record between the cities. He piloted his racing plane from Miami to New York in four hours 21 minutes 32 seconds—for an average speed of 270 miles an hour—on April 21, 1936. Seversky was accompanied by James L. Kilgallen, a news-service reporter.

WELL, I'LL TELL YOU—By BOB BURNS

I WAS just thinkin' what a difference there is between the old-fashioned woman of years ago and the modern woman of today. I had an Aunt one time who went with a man down home for 40 years and finally he jilted her and that woman never said a word about it. She just suffered in silence. No, I'm not gonna pull that old gag about "any woman is sufferin' when she's silent." I'm tryin' to be serious, now. I always felt sorry for this

Aunt. I think she'd have been better off, if she'd acted more like the modern women do today. Jest the other day, in court here, one of them modern girls sued a man for breach of promise. When the judge asked her to state her case, the girl said "Well, judge, not only did he break my heart and wreck my life, but he messed up my entire evenin'."

VOCAL PRODIGY OF AIR AND SCREEN

Deanna Durbin Has a Voice so Full and Mature that Listeners Doubt She is Only 13, and an Opera Debut is Planned for Her With the Metropolitan.

By H. H. Niemeyer

DEANNA DURBIN... LIKES TO SING AND EAT SPAGHETTI.

PRACTICE... DEANNA WITH HER INSTRUCTOR, ANDRES DE SEGURA.

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 12.
WHEN Eddie Cantor introduces Deanna Durbin over the air every week as his 13-year-old radio star most everybody thinks Eddie is kidding. Especially so after Deanna starts to sing. She has the voice of a long established grand opera diva and it is hard to imagine that it really comes from a rather frail 13 year old who, despite her radio and motion picture work, is still in school.

We talked to little Miss Durbin the other day on the lot of the Universal studios where she makes her pictures. She was sitting, propped up, in a barber's chair where the studio make-up man was trying, with indifferent success, to add a few years to appearance to meet the requirements of a film in which she is working. Seeing her it was almost as difficult to believe that she is the girl with the mature grand opera voice. Her speaking voice is no different from that of any other girl her age. A trifle richer perhaps but just a trifle. Yet Andres de Segura, once upon a time a leading baritone for the Metropolitan Opera Company and now a teacher of voice in Hollywood, has been commissioned by the "Met" to keep a steady eye on Deanna's progress and report when she will be ready for a New York debut among the select, and carefully selected, singers.

Deanna recently completed work in her first feature picture, a gay comedy-drama called "Three Smart Girls." In addition she is kept pretty busy as the prima donna of Eddie Cantor's coast-to-coast radio program, broadcast weekly over the Columbia network.

And now comes opera! Segura points out that while it is far from common for a grand opera company to be seriously interested in such a youthful singer, it is not without precedent. Lucie Bori made her Metropolitan debut at the age of 14. The great Adelina Patti first sang in Spanish opera when she was 11. According to the famed baritone—and he has medical testimony to back him up—Deanna already is the possessor of a fully developed set of vocal organs. Her voice will change only in volume as she matures.

"Deanna possesses brains and vocal cords that are developed far in advance of her years," he said recently. "I do not hesitate to predict a great grand opera career for this little girl. This child has a voice in 10,000,000, and it will improve with proper use. In addition, she has the invaluable assets of poise, charm and beauty."

Segura recommends a delay of three years in the little songstress' operatic debut, however, for he believes that "more preparation will enlarge and enrich an already mature soprano voice."

It sounds like pretty exciting business, but Deanna, who is all these things, doesn't have time to be excited.

her's chair when we talked to her. "Naturally I'm terribly happy about it all. What girl wouldn't be? But I honestly don't have the opportunity to think about it long enough to get as thrilled as you might imagine."

"It's like this. Every week there's the radio program with Mr. Cantor. In addition to the time we are actually on the air, there is the time required for rehearsals. And it goes on, of course, whether I am working in a picture or not. When I am working on a picture, that takes more time, lots more."

"I go to school every day whether I'm working or not. I take my music lessons, sometimes as often as every day. I rehearse for my recordings in the picture. Every few days several hours are devoted to posing for still pictures."

"Sometimes my days seem like cross-word puzzles, but I really love it."

"And, actually, it's not so hectic as I've made it seem. Mrs. Mary West, my school teacher, the studio officials, the radio people, and my mother get together and map out my days so that they run smoothly and leave me time for recreation."

shining blue eyes, and a gorgeous smile. Blaise Hollywood took Deanna to its heart long before her voice had gone out over any radio program or her face had appeared on any screen. By singing at less than a dozen social gatherings at the film capital, Deanna created a reputation for herself unparalleled in the history of the business.

The late Irving Thalberg asked her to sing, with Rosa Ponselle, at a brilliant dinner which he tendered to a visiting stage producer. It was just before the producer's tragic death, and one of his last acts was to write her a glowing note of thanks which he sent in an enormous bouquet of American Beauty roses.

ONE of the real problems which Universal and the radio people have encountered in connection with the little star has been that of convincing people that she's really only 13. Literally hundreds of indignant letters have been received, following her radio broadcast. They say: "When the woman has a voice like that, why is it necessary to claim she's only a child?"

Most of these doubting Thomases will be convinced when they see her on the screen, looking like what she is—an unusually attractive high school freshman. Because of her rare poise and dramatic ability, however, there may still be some who will question her announced age. For those there are birth certificates and other unimpeachable evidence that Deanna was born in Winnipeg, Canada, on December 4, 1923.

She came to Southern California with her parents at the age of 1 year. At that time—and long after—the idea of a motion picture career for the little girl didn't enter anyone's head in the Durbin family. As in the case of thousands of other families, the move to Hollywood was inspired merely by a desire to escape rigorous northern winters. James Durbin, the girl's broker-father, was in poor health and his doctors recommended a change in climate.

As soon as she could talk, Deanna began singing children's songs with unusual clarity and truthfulness. By the time she reached 10, members of her family felt that she definitely possessed an unusual voice.

Deanna's elder sister, Edith—who is a nationally known fencer and also a dramatic teacher in the Los Angeles school system—was particularly insistent in her belief that the child had a remarkable talent which should be cultivated. Lessons followed and Deanna's progress here out the most optimistic predictions.

Then she began thinking of an operatic career. The idea of a motion picture career did not even suggest itself.

School where she was good in her lessons, but no prodigy. Even then, though, her unusual voice set her apart from other youngsters. She was in great demand for school, church, and neighborhood entertainments, and she became quite famous throughout a small section of the city.

A woman in the neighborhood happened to be acquainted with a Hollywood actor's agent, and was so enthusiastic about the youngster's vocal talents that she called him and insisted that he hear Deanna sing. So the agent attended a recital and listened to her render Aida's "Il Bacio"—render it with such clarity and tone that he was amazed. The result was one of those things which can happen only in Hollywood. In 24 hours she had embarked upon a professional career. She was sent to Segura for lessons. Specialists peered down her throat and found her vocal organs fully developed despite her youth.

She made one musical short at Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer studios before being signed by Universal. The short has not been released as yet, so Deanna's picture debut, so far as the public is concerned, is in Universal's feature length production, "Three Smart Girls," by Adele Comandini.

overlooked, in seeing that she be properly launched in motion pictures. She was surrounded by a strong cast of popular favorites, including Binnie Barnes, Alice Brady, Charles Winninger, Mischa Auer, Ray Milland, and Ernest Cossart.

And Deanna didn't see herself on the screen, in the film, until it was finished. Then she went to the Hollywood pre-view showing and was rather amazed by it all. Her mother and father and the studio officials thought it best to keep her away from the "rushes"—the day by day views of the scenes as they are photographed. Didn't want her to become too professional minded. So far as it is possible for a rising young movie star to do so, Deanna Durbin continues to live as she did before Hollywood's magic began to work.

But she is only 13 years old and she likes to skate and go to movies and eat spaghetti. Her favorite movie star is Mickey Mouse. She goes to school four hours every day and her marks in algebra might be better.

We asked her what her outstanding interest in life was and were rather surprised when she didn't say either the movies or singing. Her answer, indeed, was just "Tippy."

And Tippy is her cocker spaniel.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

My dear Mrs. Carr:

YOU have helped me before with your kind advice and I would be very grateful if you will help me again. For the past five months or so I have been going with a gentleman who is 27 and I am 18. We love each other very much and seem to get along O. K. But my trouble is, my mother thinks he is too old for me and my father doesn't say anything, but thinks I could do better.

I know I am too young to consider marriage and wouldn't think of it for at least two years or more. But I cannot understand why a girl cannot go with a man she likes. Now don't think I am sentimental or the wishy-washy type. I have been going with a good many boys around home and I have not found many that are not given to cheap "petting." This boy has always treated me nice, is very sensible and takes the best of care of me when I go out in the evening with him. His occupation is farming, and he is honest and hardworking. At present he is on the farm with his mother and they have a nice home.

I am helping my mother and father on a large farm. I help with milking, gardening, sawing wood and practically everything on a farm. And still, mother insists that I would never be happy. I love cooking, sewing, and am not afraid of any kind of work. I have a fairly good education.

Do you think I am wrong in keeping company with this young man? He appeals to me more than any boy I have ever gone with.

DOUBTFUL.

Probably the only reason your parents object is because they see that you are becoming too serious and are too matter-of-fact about the young man, whom you have known so short a time. Although you are only 18, and have been going with him so recently, I can see that you are thinking of him in the light of a prospective husband. That is rather foolish, both because you are too young to do this and because you may be "counting chickens before they hatch"; how do you know he is contemplating any such thing?

Accept some of his attentions and some of his invitations, but not all of them. Go about with other boys, even if you feel they are his inferiors (perhaps you are not such a good judge right in the beginning) and stop (or delay) such serious comparisons.

Probably your mother and father would be more willing for you to go out with the man, who really is not too old, when they know that you will not lose your head—something you may regret.

Dear Martha Carr:

IF THERE is anyone among your readers whose right leg is shorter than the left, by an inch and a half, and who wears a size 5 shoe, I should like to send them a pair of shoes that belonged to my mother. The built-up shoe has a little toe which can easily be mended. I know that it costs quite a little to have a shoe "built up"—and these might help someone, who cannot afford this.

I wish you could tell me how to preserve the color of autumn foliage sumac. M. J.

We will be glad to let you know if we have an inquiry and request for the shoes. Of course, references will be required of them. I think you might, too, inquire at the Shriner's Hospital for Crippled Children.

Autumn foliage may be pressed so that the moisture is removed but colors remain. Then an application of paraffine, melted thin, applied to both sides. Probably a good florist may have a better idea, as this is a very old method. Also he could tell you about preserving body and color of sumac and autumn grasses and foliage.

My dear Mrs. Carr:

I READ your column daily and now I have come to you with a list of my questions:

Do you think a boy five feet four inches should expect a girl taller than that to dance with him in public places? DUMB.

Send me addressed, stamped envelope, in which I may mail you my "Sub-Deb Questionnaire." This will answer all your questions except the first one which I have printed here.

If you are both good dancers, and are as independent as most young persons now are, there is no reason why you should not dance together. Girls seem to have grown so much taller in the last 10 years that not many of them are embarrassed by their height or when they appear with men of shorter stature.

Letters intended for this column must be addressed to Martha Carr at the St. Louis Post-Dispatch. Mrs. Carr will answer all questions of general interest but, of course, cannot give advice on matters of a purely legal or medical nature. Those who do not care to have their letters published may enclose an addressed and stamped envelope for personal reply.

How Opponents Of Vivisection Changed Policy

Hospital Forced to Accept Animal Experimentation as Necessary to Medicine.

By Dr. M. G. Seelig

I CANNOT remember how many times in the last thirty years, I have been called upon to write articles, address lay groups, appear before legislative assemblies, and carry on discussions to prove that irreparable harm would be worked on the public if Medicine were denied the privilege of studying disease through animal experimentation.

During the course of the years, my reaction to anti-vivisection propaganda has changed. I used to feel that the essential problem lay in converting the anti-vivisection group through the presentation of irrefutable facts. Is it scarcely conceivable that even the most stubborn enthusiasts could hold out against cold, statistical figures, drawn up by men of medicine, who are, to say the least, as sincere, as honest and as intelligent as the group to whom they appeal? Scarcely conceivable; but nevertheless it is a fact.

So I have come to look upon the average intelligent anti-vivisectionist as an honestly misguided person, who stands not so much for a deep conviction as he represents, rather, a state of mind. I have no quarrel with him on the ground of his belief; but I deplore the consequences that have flowed and always will flow when he crystallizes his belief into belligerent public sentiment or into ill-advised legislation that cramps the study and conquest of disease.

For those who feel as I do, there is much solace in some recent news that came from England where there has always been a group of actively militant anti-vivisectionists. In the southwestern part of London there is a large hospital, with a qualified staff of surgeons and specialists. It is a charitable institution, by the name of The National Anti-Vivisection Hospital. Written into the constitution of this hospital are the provisions that no experimenter on animals may be permitted to serve on its governing board, nor serve on its medical, surgical, nursing or administrative staff; that no remedies that are the result of experiments on animals may be used there; and that every person on the staff be required to take a pledge against vivisection.

Under these provisions, the hospital has broken down. An application has been made to the High Court of Justice for abandoning the anti-vivisection conditions on which the founding of the charity rests. Under affidavit, the senior-honorary surgeon pleaded that advances in medicine and surgery made it impossible to run the hospital on anti-vivisection lines. The news, as it reached me from England, stated that the present high taxation may have interfered with the legacies and bequests; but it also stated that Mr. Justice Eve, himself a personal sympathizer with the original objects and principles of the institution, granted the right to change both the policy and the name of the hospital for the reason that the time had come when the original principles laid down in its constitution were no longer practical.

On Broadway

By Walter Winchell

A radio sponsor recently went to NBC to cast a new air show. He wanted an entertainer, he said, of the Charlie King type. The Artists Bureau at NBC wasted much shoe leather, and finally reported it couldn't find anyone like Charlie King. . . . Our complaint is this: Why don't they employ Charlie King, him self, who started in the first cinema version of "The Broadway Melody," but who now is employed at the same M. G. M. studio as a studio wood as an extra at $7.50 a day?

Two of our better-known movie favorites, after visiting the Wainbow Woom, decided to go up on the roof of Radio City to get an airplane view of the Big Town. The man who sells tickets, which are 40 cents, said: "Tickets, please. . . . To which the actress replied: 'Do we have to pay? You should go for going to your roof!'" "Maybe you're right, lady," replied the chap, "but they always make me pay to see you in the movies."

P. S. The movie couple paid. . . . On Broadway the only loyal things you have at your side are your arms. . . . Panhandlers ask for money, not because they need it, but because they don't think you do.

John Whitaker, of the H-Trib foreign staff, has a swell book titled "And Fear Came." . . . It contains an anecdote about Agitated Adolf. . . . Robert Dell, correspondent of the Manchester Guardian, had to telephone the Nazi press chief, Goebbels, and the switchboard gal monotonously chirped at him: "This is the Ministry of Propaganda and Public Enlightenment. Hell, Hitler. With whom do you wish to speak? Tell Hitler." "This is Mr. Robert Dell speaking," returned the disgruntled journalist. "God Save the King." . . . Whitaker also tells about reporter Jay Allen of Chicago, who got into a fight with a Frenchman in a Paris cafe, and kayoed him with a punch.

The native pal started to close in on Allen menacingly. . . . Thinking fast, Allen leaped to a chair and won the angry mob to his side by yelling, "This dog of a man has insulted France."

In a cocktail bazaar (which is Park Avenue for saloon) of one of the fustier hotels, the cutaway manager asked a broker to write his name and address on a one hundred-dollar bill he had offered for payment. . . . No, the bill wasn't bogus. A rule of the hotel, y'know, a mere courtesy. . . . The Wall Streeter signed and accepted a fustier of 1's, 5's and 10's in change. . . . "Now he is insured," said the money manager. "YOU sign MY money. A mere courtesy, y'know." . . . As the eavesdropping barflies cheered, the crimson-faced maitre signified the mountain of currency, including the one dollar bills. . . . It is possible the hotel has junked that rule.

Pet avocations: Elisabeth Bergner, who smokes incessantly, dislikes seeing women smoke. . . . Gary Cooper refuses to use makeup in the films because, he says, it detracts from his manly appearance. . . . George Jean Nathan hates wash clothes and uses the ends of towels instead. . . . Orchidist Carlisle hates pretentious writers who can't speak their minds in words of less than seven syllables. . . . Merle Oberon detests night clubs. . . . Loretta Young, doesn't like swimming. . . . Lowell Thomas hates tipping washroom attendants and doesn't. . . . Sylvia Sydney doesn't like to pose for news cameramen, and Ben Berie's favorite hate is using new jokes.

AUTHOR'S NOTE: Answers are from the scientific viewpoint. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

—A hundred times more important simply because there are probably 10 or 20 occupations in life now where, before the machine age, there was only one. And in order to fit into these occupations you must know, as never before, your abilities, your interests—things you do not and cannot know until you go through long tests and have psychologists work out your "interest pattern" and abilities. You must today know your strong and weak points of temper and temperament, your health, self-control, and a thousand things that were unnecessary in the pre-machine age.

2.—Recently the colleges of the country were covered by Vogue magazine with this and many other questions, in order to find what young men prefer in women's dress, habits and style. The ratings averaged as follows: 1. Vitality; 2. Sex Appeal; 3. Neatness; 4. Distinction; 5. Style; 6. Beauty; 7. Sweetness. Many hard-boiled juniors and seniors crossed out Sweetness altogether. However, the Southern men, with their proverbial gallantry, kept it in the running. The "sweet girl graduate" in the Northern schools seems to have become passé—her more vital, athletic, dashing sister being preferred.

DAILY MAGAZINE

HER NAME WAS WALLIS WARFIELD

Mrs. Spencer Travels in Europe, Where She Becomes Mrs. Ernest Simpson—The Death of Her Mother.

CHAPTER SEVEN.

WARRENTON, VA., was a place of peace and comfort and friends, but presently Wallis Spencer felt once more the urge to travel. Her aunt, Mrs. D. Buchanan Merryman, agreed to go with her to Europe. So again bags were packed and tickets bought. Again there were farewells waved from the deck of an ocean liner. And again Wallis Spencer was on her way to new adventures. She and Mrs. Merryman spent some time in Paris and in the south of France. And then they went to London, where shortly after their arrival, they encountered Ernest Simpson.

He was, by this time, living in London. Separated and then divorced from his wife, he had gone to London as attorney for the ship-charters firm of Simpson and Simpson in which today he partners. It was natural for Ernest Simpson to feel at home in England. Though he was born in New York City, his father, Ernest L. Simpson of New York, was born a British subject. Ernest Simpson's sister, Lady Carr-Smylie, had chosen in London for several years. He himself, as an undergraduate at Harvard, had left the university early in 1918 to enlist in the British Coldstream Guards. Six months after enlistment Ernest Simpson received a second lieutenant's commission. At the end of the war he returned to the United States, took up his studies again at Harvard and was graduated.

Those who know Ernest Simpson well invariably speak first of his appearance. He is tall, rather blond, with a pink and white freshness of complexion. He has square set shoulders, a distinguished manner and a conservative taste in clothes. One of his hobbies is collecting old books, and he is proud of his collection. History interests him. So does biography. He likes travel, too, and has a great fund of knowledge about the places where he has been.

As a host he is easy to talk to and entertaining. He played host to Wallis Simpson and her aunt frequently that winter in London. He took them to smart restaurants, to the theater, to Covent Garden. They met many of his friends. He sent flowers. He paid subtle compliments and, with a hundred little attentions, made it plain to Wallis Simpson how much he admired her. It was a courtesy unlike any she had known before. She admired Ernest Simpson, enjoyed his companionship. In his presence she felt security and a stability that was new—and stability was a quality which Wallis Spencer's life had been lacking. There had been gaiety, glamour and excitement, but these can lose value. Strong, dependable and gallant, Ernest Simpson pleased his case—and won.

FROM Baltimore, on an August day in 1918, came the news: "Mrs. Warfield Spencer, daughter of Mrs. Charles Gordon Allen of Washington, and Mr. Ernest Simpson first lived at Grosvenor House. They moved to 12 Upper Berkeley street—a house owned by Lady Chatham. It was a small place, but attractively furnished, with pine-paneled walls, bright chintz hangings and gleaming old silver. And, of course, Wallis made it home-like with flowers—quantities of them at all times.

But Wallis Simpson missed her friends in Virginia and Maryland. For months she was homesick and for months the English way of doing things—such simple things as shopping and giving orders to servants and having tea in the morn-

TODAY'S PATTERN

There were plenty of comfortable chairs, grouped to make conversation easy. Plenty of little tables displaying Wallis Simpson's bright Chinese lacquer boxes.

The dining room was a small one—or considered so in London. Dominating the room was the mirror-topped table, large enough to seat 12 or 14 guests. Mrs. Simpson liked this table because she thinks it contributes to the gaiety of meals. The mirror top is left uncovered at dinner. At luncheon, instead of linen, brightly colored flower prints, mounted, serve as place mats.

To operate this household, Mrs. Simpson employed a cook and kitchen maid, as well as her personal maid. She is exacting with servants but they are loyal invariably remaining with her for years. Kane the Scotch parlor maid has held her post for a long period. Mrs. Ralph the cook has been employed for four years.

Mrs. Ralph besides being an excellent cook happens to be the wife of a sailor serving on Lord Louis Mountbatten's ship. When the ship is in port Mrs. Simpson does no entertaining.

"You see I have no cook!" she explains. "But you should. Really you should!" the others insisted. Wallis couldn't see that being pregnant in her life. Things were going along well enough as they were. There wasn't anyone she wanted to impress and she wasn't a social climber. Why should she don plumes and a court train and set off for the palace?

At last though she was persuaded. "Very well," she said. "I'll do it if it doesn't cost anything."

And she did. From one friend she borrowed the crown with the three white plumes for her hair. She bought a band of aquamarines to hold the plumes in place and then—at the last minute—saw a beautiful aquamarine cross. It was four inches long and made of gorgeous stones and Wallis has a weakness for aquamarines. She bought it spending more than she might have on an entire court costume and wore the cross suspended from a cord about her throat with her borrowed finery.

The presentation took place June 10, 1921. It was the fourth and final court of the season. Besides King George and Queen Mary, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Gloucester, and Prince George were present. Other members of the royal family attending were Princess Mary, the Countess of Harewood, and her husband, the Earl of Harewood; the Duke of Connaught; Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone; and Major-General the Earl of Athlone, and Lady Louis Mountbatten.

Mrs. Charles G. Dawes, wife of the American ambassador, presented nine American women. They were: Mrs. William R. Amos of New York, daughter of the U. S. Consul-General in London; Mrs. Quantrell Violet of New York; Miss Carol Donohugh of New York; Mrs. James Gaylord Baldwin II, portrait painter and member of the Columbia Club; Junior League; Mrs.

Man's Vague Interpretation Of Spirituality

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

"OFTEN you use the words 'spirituality,' and the like," writes a young man, "and I wonder what you mean. No, I'm not trying to be smart, but the words are just empty sounds to me."

They must mean something, but I do not know what it is. If a man has spirituality, what does he have; if he lacks it, what does he lack? Please do not think me impertinent—I want to know.

It is a fair question, and my reader has a right to ask it. But it is not easy to answer it because we have such vague, misty ideas of the subject. Or we just use the word without any meaning.

A Chinese student said to Stanley Jones: "Do not tell us to love our enemies, preach spirituality to us." To him spirituality was a soft pious emotion which made him feel cozy on the inside.

But that may not be spirituality at all. To be sure, it may stir us deeply, but spirituality is more than emotional excitement, or something quite different—and far more worth seeking.

The Bible tells us that the fruits of the spirit are love, joy, peace, kindness, patience, faithfulness, gentleness, self-control. Here we are nearer the truth, and the word begins to have meaning.

Put plainly, a spiritual man is a man who is alive to the values of life; its true values, not the things which people mistake for values. It is a right estimate of the real worth of things.

All things, that is, not merely religious things—art, automobiles, books, banks, music, politics, science, sport, and the rest. Spirituality is the insight which sees what is really worth while.

All these things have value, each after its kind and in its place, but they are not the things that have the highest value. The spiritual man puts the highest things first, and everything takes its place.

The highest value in life is a sense of values. If a man lacks it, he mixes things and makes a mess. If he has it, he is not to be fooled in the midst of noise, fashion, fads, and unreality.

Woolen Stockings

It is advisable to buy woolen stockings a size too large to allow for shrinkage. Wash them in lukewarm water and soap, being careful to keep the water the same temperature throughout the process. A little soap in the final rinsing water will help to keep that soft, fluffy texture. If you enjoy the warmth of woolen stockings, but they "pick" your legs, wear a pair of thin silk undersocks under the woolen ones. When you come into a warm house or office, the woolen stockings may be slipped off.

An old Christmas custom calls for brandy poured over the plum pudding. Just before the pudding is served the brandy may be lighted. The blaze will last for several minutes.

Instead of Harsh Laxatives

EVERYONE knows that harsh laxatives do not cure constipation but only irritate the intestinal tract. Instead, try this. First thing every morning squeeze the juice of a lemon into a tall glass of cold or warm water. Into another glass, put half a teaspoonful of ordinary baking soda (bicarbonate). Pour back and forth, and drink when foaming subsides.

Why Grow Old?

By Josephine Lowman

THIS week in this column every day I will give an exercise for the face. Don't laugh because there really some very good ones. These exercises stimulate circulation and improve tone in the face.

Start with the one I give you today. Do it three times the first day and increase the number of times you do it every day so that you will be repeating this one exercise 10 times by the end of the week. Cut out the others I give this week and paste them in a book, but do not start doing any of them until next week.

Add one exercise a week. You must start on the face in this way so that you will not tire the muscles. They are unused to exercise.

Cover the face with cold cream or oil so your skin won't wrinkle. Pull the shades down and start in.

Sit in front of a mirror. Lift all of the muscles of the face and forehead upward, just as though you were sniffing some unpleasant odor. The only difference is that I want you to raise the muscles of the forehead as well as those of the face, instead of lowering them as you do in frowning. Hold this grimace while you count 15 slowly. Relax SLOWLY.

If you have missed the neck and chin exercises given previously in this column, you may obtain them by sending a 3-cent stamped, self-addressed envelope to Josephine Lowman in care of St. Louis Post-Dispatch.

The Daily Short Story

THUR ANDREWS had carved his destiny with an ax in the forests of Oregon and the one sorrow of his declining years was that his son was a slender lad with a Phi Beta Kappa key and a profound distaste for outdoor life. He had hoped to sire an All-American halfback who would leave college looking for new lumber lands to conquer. Instead, he had a slim young man whose greatest ambition was to hold the chair of philosophy at his alma mater.

It was the last straw when young Cy wrote from Paris during a summer vacation that he had met "the girl" and that she was Eileen Nelson of the Newport Nelsons.

"Now won't that be a fine parental combination!" Cyrus frothed to his buxom wife, Mary.

"I'll disown you," he cabled his offspring. "Young Cyrus, however, a lot of Andrews wire in his system. 'I'm self-supporting,' he cabled back. 'Meet you Adirondacks camp Aug. 18,' he added irrelevantly and at some expense. Cyrus made a number of emphatic statements about where he would not be Aug. 18, but he was smoking a pipe in the library of the 20-room Andrews shack when the young couple arrived.

Even the tolerant Mary had to admit, however, that the girl Cy seemed to have captured was a fragile-looking creation of peaches and cream. Old Cyrus smiled dutifully throughout the introductions, but when they were alone he groaned a "What did I tell you?" to the boy's mother.

"That hothouse posy will let him degenerate into a T. B. patient," he wailed. "I'm afraid the Andrews name is finished."

Cy and Eileen played three sets of tennis that afternoon. Old Cyrus classified tennis as a sissy game and refused to leave the house to watch the match. He was slightly astonished at breakfast next morning, however, to learn that the youngsters already had been out for a nine-hole round of golf. Though golf, too, was an old man's excuse for exercise. That afternoon Cy and Eileen went swimming and after dinner Mary in-

John J. Kaske, one of the members of the December grand jury who disagreed with the majority decision not to investigate the fraudulent bond issue election of St. Louis, conferred yesterday with Attorney General Franklin M. Roosevelt and urged the jury to investigate the election, and to pass upon the decision to pass upon the election of the bond issue, which the Post-Dispatch has shown to be a fraud, has consulted with a friend and a friend of the course that he should take in the circumstances.

Kaske's Position
It was learned that Kaske "did not want to do that might injure his own standing in the community." He was advised by Judge Padberg and that there were three alternatives—that the grand jury panel a new one; that he accept Kaske's resignation; or he might permit Kaske to tend any further sessions of the grand jury.

Kaske was represented by ferring resignation. In he was advised to inform Padberg that if he were to resign he would make statement of his reasons.

It was learned further had determined, if he member of the grand jury holds its next session Thursday, to ask that the sider its decision and ballot boxes used in the election.

Miller and Judge Padberg, represented some members of the grand jury who were "fed about something." would not say what was his for the worry. He urged Kaske to "sleep on it."

Discussing the incident today, Judge Padberg said he was sorry anyone else grand jury had determined to continue the election investigation. "It was a suit and I can't condone any kind," he added.

In impaneling the grand jury Monday of last week, Judge Padberg gave only routine instructions. At that time he was sure that the jury would advise the what remained to be election fraud investigation.

Miller Urged Ind
Miller did advise the to begin the bond issue inquiry. He had assembled he was prepared and at three conference appealed to the jury.
